It's the only way, says Rand "think tank" study

Tax motorist out of the driver's seat to save fuel

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — The only way to slash gasoline consumption in the United States, short of rationing, is to tax the gas-guzzling motorists out of the driver's seat, a Rand Corp. study said Thursday.

Increasing the gasoline tax by 45 cents — which would put the price in the neighborhood of $1 a gallon — would reduce consumption by 40 per cent, the Rand study said.

The study, conducted with a $500,000 grant from the National Science Foundation, said that President Ford's announced plan to cope with the energy squeeze — by developing new energy sources within the United States and setting Detroit to produce cars that get more mileage — will have no effect right away. The Rand study said that these are long-term ideas that will not have significant effect until the 1980s.

The main point is, continuation of short-term and long-term policies to cut down on gasoline consumption, the study said, and the only workable coverage includes the high taxes or rationing.

An initially high gasoline tax could be eased down, year by year, as the long-term measures take effect, the study said.

The nation currently uses about 17 million barrels of oil a day, and Ford wants that cut to 16 million.

An increase of 30 cents a gallon in the gasoline tax, bringing the overall price into the 80 cent range, would accomplish that, the study said, cutting gas usage by 15 per cent and saving 2½ million barrels a day of oil.

A tax hike of 45 cents would reduce consumption by 40 per cent. An increase of 5 cents a gallon would cause a 3 per cent cut, saving 700,000 barrels of oil a day.

The study said that even if Detroit makes cars that get much better mileage, it will take some time to make significant impact, because older gas guzzlers will be on the roads for years.

Since only about 10 per cent of the cars on the road are new, a 20 per cent improvement in gas mileage, even in new cars' models, would cut consumption overall by 2 per cent, the study said. Such improvements are the best long range hope, however, the study said.

The study notes the administration's goal of trying to increase average mileage from around 13.5 to 20 miles per gallon by 1980 and to 27.5 miles per gallon by 1985.

Air fares to rise Nov. 15

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Domestic airfares will go up another 4 per cent Nov. 15, boosting the cost of an airline ticket an average 30 per cent over this time last year.

The Civil Aeronautics Board narrowly approved the new increase 3-2 Thursday and made permanent a temporary 6 per cent ticket hike granted during the Arab oil crisis. That boost had been scheduled to expire Thursday.

The CAB also withdrew approval granted earlier this month for a special trans-Atlantic excursion economy fare.

All U.S. domestic air carriers will be affected by the increase except Southern Airways, which can raise its fares today. A CAB spokesman said all airlines except Southern had requested the later date for administrative purposes.

A spokesman said the board's actions were taken "to offset current (airline) cost increases stemming from the general inflationary economic climate as well as high fuel costs."

The two dissenting CAB members said they felt the new increase was "clearly contrary to the national interests."

There is no termination date for this increase, but the spokesman said the board has recommended the airlines voluntarily adopt a termination date of June 30, 1975.

The action on trans-Atlantic fares, which becomes effective today, followed rejection by the International Air Transport Association of fare structures approved Oct. 21.

The international carriers' organization proposed a new structure, which the CAB accepted, eliminating the Oct. 21 agreement's provision for a special 22 to 45 day excursion economy fare for those passengers making reservations far in advance.

Now, only those passengers who already have made reservations under the so-called APEX advance reservation agreement will get to fly at that economy rate.

Youths, 16, face trials as adults

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Juveniles over 16-years old who commit serious felonies should be processed through the same court procedures and penalties as adults, District Attorney Joseph Busch said Thursday.

He said prosecutors should decide whether the 16-to-18-year olds would be tried as adults or juveniles.

Busch told the Assembly Committee of Criminal Justice that the plan "would put a sense of responsibility on the young people."

Juvenile court proceedings are closed, there is no jury, no bail and sentences are usually lighter.

Racial fighting closes school

LAKEWOOD (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies closed Lakewood High School at midday Thursday following fist fights between black and white students.

Terrance Mangan, Lakewood community safety director, said three black and two white students were arrested.

The school was expected to be open again today.

Teamsters seek to block suits

LINDLO (UPI) — The Teamsters Union Thursday sought blockage of 25 "frivolous" United Farm Workers of America legal actions in Superior Court, contending the actions abused the lawful process of the courts.

The Teamsters, feuding with the UFW over control of farm workers, asked the court to quash the suits.

The Teamsters have won four cases and the others are pending. They each seek $5,000 in general damages as well as "appropriate" punitive damages.

65th Assembly: the sparks fly

McVittie believes he is best qualified for the Assembly seat since he is free of any special interest support.

"I can represent all the people without being influenced by any one financial group." McVittie reported he had returned a check to the California Trial Lawyers Association to prevent any conflict of interest in deciding on "no fault" insurance measures as an assemblyman.

"As a trained public accountant, tax expert and city attorney, I am qualified—by education and experience to handle the complex job of reviewing the massive state budget and preparing legislation for the best interest for all the people."

VanderPoel believes he is best qualified because of his background as a businessman, member of the school board and his work with Briggs.

"We need people in Sacramento who have met a payroll and know what it is to have a balanced budget."

VanderPoel said his experience on the school board will assist him as a legislator since much of the state budget goes to education. "I am qualified in looking at state programs offered to school districts."

The Republican nominee has promised that one of his first legislative acts will be to propose a bill to provide counselors at the elementary schools to spot and assist pupils who are potential delinquents.

McVittie's statements on campaign issues are:

INFLATION "I want to stop big business lobbyists in Sacramento from pushing prices even higher. I want state government to take immediate steps to help the average family fight the high cost of living. That will take leaders who are willing, able and independent of special influences.

TAXES — "I know where the tax loopholes are and how to close them. Taxes should be based on a person's ability to pay."

CRIME — "As a former federal law enforcement agent, I believe laws must be enforced to protect people and their property."

EDUCATION — "I think it is a tragedy that a college education is now priced beyond the financial means of many average income families." McVittie said he is opposed to year-round school being forced on this area without a test.

VanderPoel's statement on campaign issues are:

TAXES — "The tax structure in California desperately needs reforming. I advocate abolishing the property taxes of all those who derive their sole source of income from Social Security benefits."

INFLATION — "The key to controlling inflation is controlling government spending. Government should be run on a sound, business like basis with emphasis on governmental efficiencies."

Crime "As an immediate response to the rising crime rate, I advocate increasing the number of judges and increasing the number of hours for courtroom operations.

"For second time offenders, I advocate stiffer bails, mandatory sentencing, reduced plea bargaining and abolishing the probation subsidy program. As a long-range approach to the crime problem, I support the statewide implementation of an elementary school counseling program designed to steer children away from a life of crime."

McVittie said he plans a budget of about $25,000 for both the primary and general election campaigns. His major contributor is himself with a $10,000 loan. He also reports some 100 individual contributors, with donations ranging from $1 to $100. He estimated the average at about $25.

His major campaign expenses include about $5,000 for postage in mailing campaign brochures; $2,500 for billboards; and $2,000 for newspaper advertising.

VanderPoel estimates his total budget will be about $60,000. He reports netting $16,00 from a buffet attended by Gov. Ronald Reagan and a $2,500 contribution from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Oosten of Chino. The candidate lists 745 individual contributions which range from $1 to $100.

His major expenses include $59,000 for postage in five "mailings" of campaign material; $5,000 for billboards; $800 for radio advertising; and $5,500 for newspaper advertising.

McVittie graduated from the University of Illinois in 1960 with a degree in accounting; graduated from the USC Law School in 1964; was admitted to the bar in 1965; and graduated from the U.S. Treasury Law Enforcement Academy. He has practiced law in Chino since 1965.

McVittie and his wife, Cristina, have resided in western San Bernardino County since 1965.

VanderPoel is owner and manager of a Chino dairy and resides at 13752 Bon View Ave. with his wife, Jeanne, and their seven children. Mr. and Mrs. VanderPoel are members of St. Margaret's Catholic Church.

He is vice chairman of the League of California Milk Producers, past president of the Milk Producers Council, and member of the Chino Rotary Club.

The Assembly district includes Pomona, Chino, Montclair, Upland, Ontario and Cucamonga. Based on April 11 registration figures, Democratic voters outnumber the Republicans, 46,382 to 38,444.

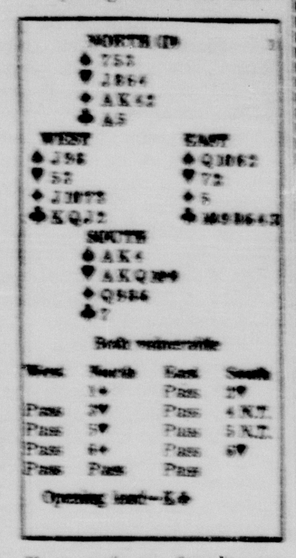
A sure-fire beats odds

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North and South really belong in seven diamonds. That contract makes against any 3-2 trump break provided the opening lead is not ruffed.



If you and your favorite partner get to seven hearts, you have no play for that contract irrespective of how anything breaks. We feel that most players will land at six hearts.

In that case it is up to South to find a sure-fire way to bring that contract in.

It is done by means of a safety play. South wins the club lead in dummy and ruffs a club. Then he draws trumps. After this start he should cash one of dummy's high diamonds and play ace-king-small of spades.

If diamonds were going to break nicely there was no need for this safety play but it is necessary against the actual 4-1 break. Furthermore, it is a rather unusual safety play, since the safety play trick was a sure loser in any event.

See how it works? If East wins he has to give South a ruff and discard. If West wins he can lead a diamond but irrespective of which diamond he leads, his diamond trick will have disappeared.

Suspects held in slaying of elderly priest

PATERSON, N.J. (UPI) — Two suspects in the fatal beating of a 79-year-old parish priest were arrested and charged Thursday with murder. Two other suspects were being sought, police said.

Det. Sgt. Philip Terrone identified the men arrested as Diego Colon, 24, and Juan Colon, 21, no relation. Terrone said that police, working on information from an informer, arrested Diego Colon at his home Wednesday night and early Thursday apprehended Juan Colon on a roof where he fled when police approached.

35th District race

Lloyd denies fund charges

Charges that the Committee to Elect Jim Lloyd violated two federal laws involving campaign funds has been denied by Lloyd, the Democratic nominee in the 35th Congressional District.

Bill Odom, chairman of the Republican's 49th Central Committee, said he has sent identical letters to California's Secretary of State and the clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives asking for an investigation of Lloyd's reports and the appropriate corrective legal action.

"Specific infractions of laws related in the letters include receipt of a corporate contribution which is illegal in a federal election, and exceeding a $25,000 limitation on funds from the candidate and his immediate family," he noted.

"Voters are very sensitive to impropriety in elections. Our laws and reporting requirements are strict, but necessary, to protect the interests of the public."

In his letter, Odom pointed specifically to a $200 payment from Ayers Tool Co. of Baldwin Park. According to California records, this company is a corporation, making this an illegal contribution, he charged.

He also reported the committee's financial statement disclosed a debt of $24,867 to Lloyd and another debt of $2,770 to Lloyd's Public Relations.

"The total of these amounts is in excess of the legal maximum," he wrote.

In reply, Lloyd said charges by the Republican committee chairman were "without foundation or merit."

The check from the firm cited was for luncheon tickets and would not be considered an outright political contribution, said Lloyd.

"I, of course, reported it and made no effort to conceal the amount. If it is found to be improper, I will return it. The amount represents two-tenths of one per cent of my total expenditures."

Lloyd also said there was no foundation that he exceeded the $25,000 contribution limitation.

"While it is true that I list Lloyd's Public Relations for $2,770, it is nonsense to conclude that this represents a contribution. Lloyd's is long established as an advertising and public relations firm serving local organizations and political campaigns.

"The debt to Lloyd's cannot be written off by the Lloyd for Congress campaign committee. The debt represents a service fee for the work of Lloyd's five employes on behalf of my candidacy and is a bona fide campaign obligation," he said.

Lloyd said he has directed his campaign staff to provide total disclosure of all sources of money for the campaign. Exceeding the law, Lloyd also reported he has listed his financial statement and provided copies of his tax returns to remove any possible doubt about his commitment to campaign disclosures.

THE POLITICAL ARENA

Will public eventually fund all campaigning?

Should political campaigns be financed with a mixture of small private contributions and public funds, as advocated by Common Cause?

Two candidates for the 35th Congressional District seat have differing views. Rep. VICTOR VEYSEY, R-43rd Dist., disagrees with any form of public financing of campaigns because it will be an added expense on the taxpayer.

But Veysey is willing to observe how the public financing of presidential campaigns works in 1976 and reconsider the question at that time.

JIM LLOYD, Democratic nominee, favors the Common Cause position. He says the public is being charged for more than the cost of financing campaigns because of government favors to special interest groups and and also because the public already pays many of the campaigning expenses incurred by incumbents.

Common Cause, which describes itself as the "people's lobby," believes the only way the public can break any stranglehold that special interests now hold on government is to finance political campaigns with a mixture of small private contributions and public funds.

Both candidates agree with Common Cause that government business should be conducted in public except where secrecy is required because of valid national security reasons.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE — "Californians will pay adequate taxes for the support of good schools if they have confidence in their school board members. Parental participation is absolutely essential for a successful school. Teachers, as highly trained professionals, have a sacred trust in the education of our youth. They should be well paid, full time, year around, and they should have adequate job security.

"I decry the growing militancy among teachers and other public employes. California teachers are uniquely protected by tenure, insolent tenure, meet and confer requirements, contracts, and strong organizational representation at local and state levels. While the right to strike is a constitutional one, teachers should consider their special position before using this right—and I feel it should not be invoked except in the greatest extremity. There are better ways to settle differences." — VEYSEY.

Edmund Brown Jr., Democratic nominee for governor, will attend a reception Friday in Ontario to honor BILL MOUTTIE, Democratic candidate in the 60th Assembly District.

McVittie earlier was visited by Edmund Brown Sr., former California governor, and Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy.

A no-host reception will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Simon Elliseic at 468 Kinsley Square, between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. The public is invited and admission is free.

HENRY MITYSAK, candidate for the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, fourth district, has announced that John Yuhas will serve as his field representative if elected.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE — "I've announced my campaign theme of finding ways to help the average family cope with inflation. From my door-to-door visits with voters in the local communities, I know that most persons are baffled by the complexities of their insurance policies and exactly what they get in return for their insurance dollars.

"There is a widespread feeling that policies deliberately are written in a way to confuse the public. On top of that, studies have shown similar policies can vary in costs as much as 170 degrees. Insurance premiums consume a large share of the family budget. You can know exactly where your food and housing expenditures go, why all the mystique about insurance?" McVITTIE.

40 die, 36 hurt in firecracker blast

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A bundle of firecrackers exploded in a rail coach recently near Manchargonj station, 275 miles southeast of New Delhi, killing 40 persons and injuring 36, Railway Ministry officials said.

They said a burning cigarette butt was carelessly thrown by a passenger on a bundle containing the crackers, setting off the explosion which enveloped the coach on the speeding express train in flames.

Claremont Parks and Recreation Director Fred Hawkins has announced the appointment of Brian L. Thompson as new superintendent of parks, succeeding Tom Taylor who resigned Sept. 12.

Thompson, a 1972 Cal Poly Pomona graduate with a B.S. degree in parks administration, will begin his new job the middle of November.

In addition, he was a park intern with the Southeast Recreation and Park District in Norwalk, during the summer of 1972. He started his career in horticulture as a part-time laborer on a Christmas tree farm. Thompson is 25, married and a longtime resident of Southern California.

City council splits

Storm sewers controversy postponed until next week

Claremont City Council next Wednesday night will resume discussion on charging drainage fees for future development in the city and in the county area within the city's sphere of influence.

Councilman Frank Hungerford believes that the proposed drainage fee will present another obstacle towards a developer wanting to annex his property to the city. At his urging, the council decided to postpone action Tuesday.

A study by consulting firm Alderman, Swift and Lewis divides the city into four local drainage areas and establishes drainage fees for each area.

Per-acre fees would be collected from developers to help defray the cost of future drainage facilities.

Area 1 where a developer would pay $430 a gross acre includes the city southeasterly from Cambridge Avenue and Arrow Highway, south of Arrow Highway, and east of Indian Hill Boulevard and south of Base Line Road to the county line.

Area 2 where the recommended charge is $570 a gross acre includes all of Claremont south of Base Line Road, north of Arrow Highway, and west of Indian Hill Boulevard.

Area 3 with a charge of $1,160 a gross acre includes all of Claremont north of Base Line Road and southeasterly of Thompson Creek Channel.

Area 4, with the highest recommended charge of $1,300 a gross acre, includes all of Claremont north of Base Line Road and northwesterly of Thompson Creek Channel.

The study estimated the cost to design and construct all the storm drain facilities within the city at $8,790,000.

The study assumed that all unincorporated territory would be annexed to the city in order to estimate the highest capital return that could be expected.

The study also showed that 3,247.5 acres are undeveloped, and an acre fee established for each drainage area would yield $3,286,886, or 59 per cent of the construction costs, which the developer would be expected to pay.

Hungerford compared the cost of building a home in the city against building the same home in county territory, and estimated it would cost $2,000 less in the county.

He said sewer annexation would cost $800 an acre, sewerage $5 cents a front foot, $800 a utility pole against $300 for a pole in the county, and a bedroom tax.

Hungerford said that he would like to postpone any action Tuesday night on the matter and have the Planning Commission study it.

He said that the fees were substantially higher than the staff originally estimated.

"We are going to get all the drainage problems of the county," he said.

Mayor Bertye Smith asked where the city could get the money if not from developers. "Do we up the tax rate and subsidize the developers?" she asked.

Realtor Roger Wheeler, 580 W. Foothill Blvd., said the proposed acreage fees seem "like a hardship on the developer."

City Manager Keith Mulrooney recommended that the developers come up with the 59 per cent and said he believes that the county must develop drainage districts.

Wheeler said that he thinks a majority of the developers would lean towards the county and not the city.

Councilman Gene Black said that "none of us are going to be around when the city must come up with the necessary $2 million for storm drains."

"We must try to be fiscally responsible. This isn't going to be done by bond issue," he commented.

Mulrooney proposed a meeting with the property owners in the unincorporated area to explain to them the financing of future storm drains.

Two per second

As of 1974, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, the world's population is estimated to be 3.8 billion. With births outpacing deaths, the world's head count is going up at a rate of two more persons a second, nearly 200,000 a day, more than six million a month, and about 76 million a year.

ANIMAL SHELTER TENANT

A red-tailed hawk, held by Officer O. W. Braden, is a convalescent at Upland Animal Shelter while recovering from a bullet wound. An unidentified good samaritan found the bird of prey on 19th Street in Etiwanda and took it to the shelter, where it was treated for a wounded wing. The hawk will be released in the wilds a month from now after three months of care and a trial flight.

Edison seeks 21% increase

Hearings set on electricity hike

Customers of the Southern California Edison Co. who want to testify on the utility's request for a $389 million annual rate increase will have six opportunities to be heard.

The California Public Utilities Commission will hold proceedings, each starting at 10 a.m., at these cities on these dates:

Wednesday, Los Angeles, commission courtroom, State Office Building, 107 S. Broadway; Thursday, Veterans Memorial Building, 245 W. Broadway, Long Beach; Nov. 18, City Hall, Visalia, 707 W. Acequia St.; Administration Building, 105 E. Anapamu St., Santa Barbara; Nov. 21, Board of Supervisors hearing room, 303, 505 N. Sycamore St., Santa Ana; and State Building auditorium, room 176, 303 W. Third St., San Bernardino.

A commission staff attorney will attend the sessions to assist those who want to testify or make statements.

The Edison Co. is seeking a 21 per cent increase because of increased costs of providing electric service, said officials. This includes high interest rates, increases in the cost of labor and materials, taxes and environmental, research and development problems.

The utility seeks rates that will yield a 9.6 per cent return on its investment, for a 15 per cent return on common equity.

The increase would add about 15 cents a day to the bill of the typical residential customer using 500 kilowatt hours a month.

Benefit for millions abroad

40 valley churches to hold Walk for Hungry

Sponsors are being sought by members and clergy of more than 40 churches throughout the valley for the Nov. 17 Walk for the Hungry. Under the auspices of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, the 10-mile walk will benefit the world's starving millions.

More than 1,000 walkers are expected to gather at Palomares Park, Pomona at 1 p.m. Representatives of churches, youth and adult service and civic groups, city administrations, junior and senior high schools and business organizations will take part.

Sponsors will pledge a specific sum to be donated for each mile walked by the participant they are backing. Proceeds from the community event will be distributed through CROP, a program of Church World Service under the auspices of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Working through regional offices serving 32 states and the District of Columbia, CROP annually provides about $2 million in cash and commodities for programs in 34 countries. Aid is distributed on the basis of need, without regard to race, creed or politics.

The Rev. Leland Wilson, president of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches and walk chairman, said that sponsors may designate their gifts to other agencies through CROP. "For instances," he said, "funds from the walk may be marked for distribution through Catholic Relief Services, Mennonite Central Committee, Lutheran World Relief, American Joint Jewish Distribution Committee or any other agency or organization of the sponsor's choice."

Packets containing materials and listings of available audio-visual commentaries on CROP and its work may be obtained through the La Verne Church of the Brethren. For further information Mr. Wilson may be contacted at 593-1264.

Revenue sharing delay irks social service agencies

Representatives from several social service agencies in Pomona have protested the Pomona City Council's delay in the allocation of $200,000 in revenue sharing funds to the local agencies.

In a meeting held Tuesday outside the council chambers, the representatives voiced their frustration over the council's decision Monday to delay action for at least one week to study the recommendations of the Community Life Commission for the division of the funds.

"It was the feeling of those present that the well researched recommendations of the commission were overlooked," stated Gerald Lammers of the Pomona Education Service Center.

Many of the local agencies, he continued, will be unable to implement their services as planned because of the delay.

It was originally planned that the first allocations of the funds would be available by Nov. 1.

Representatives from about eight groups took part in the meeting.

The Community Life Commission's recommendations will be reconsidered by the council at its meeting on Monday.

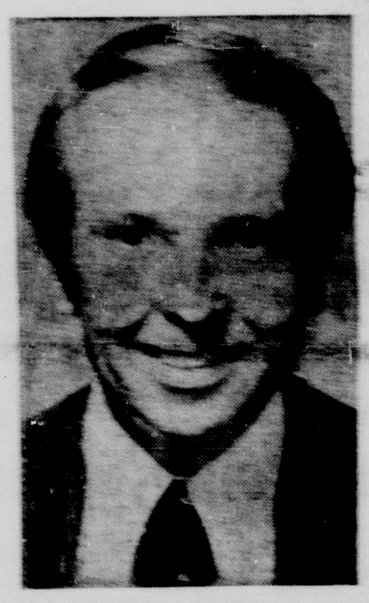
State treasurer hopeful stresses fiscal controls

John T. Kehoe, 45, Republican candidate for the office of state treasurer, spoke strongly in behalf of fiscal responsibility in executive, legislative and bureaucratic branches of government during a Pomona visit Thursday.

"Each branch must prudently reduce the cost of government as much as possible," said Kehoe, who resigned as director of California's Department of Consumer Affairs to run for state office.

"Both extremes in political philosophy agree that government spending is the major contributor to inflation and it must be curbed."

Kehoe, who opposes Democrat Jesse



JOHN T. KEHOE

Unruh in Tuesday's elections, has traveled 80,000 miles since Labor Day on the premise high visibility is imperative if he is to win support of the "distressed, apathetic" public.

Kehoe, who hopes to succeed retiring state Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest, said he thinks Mrs. Priest has an outstanding record. "She has earned the state a billion dollars interest on tax money," he said.

"I'm a strong advocate of creative government, and I've already announced that, if elected, I will appoint a 21-member, blue ribbon task force to assist the office of state treasurer."

Members, Kehoe said, would come from financial and academic fields, elected city and county treasurers' offices, and the general public.

"They would be charged with offering guidelines on how a treasurer copes with the yo-yo economy we now have. If we are to keep Mrs. Priest's record going, we must be able to adapt the state's investment program to current economic conditions," Kehoe said.

In addition, he would ask the task force to find a more secure way to store the bonds and securities that back up the state retirement systems.

"Currently we have 25 tons of paper in vaults. That's the traditional way," said Kehoe, "and it dates back to the 18th century. But it becomes hazardous to have wealth in this form, with a value of more than $20 billion, stored in a vault where militant elements of society might find it a challenging target.

Kehoe said the information could be computerized, stored in computer banks.

He would like to formalize a system of strong communications between the state treasurer and cities and counties so they could "face legislative and economic challenges together."

With the assistance of a task force, Kehoe said, he would be able to "air concepts of social responsibility, and set goals, and determine if state funds can earn interest while invested in projects to help California's economic needs, such as housing."

"Along this same line," said Kehoe, "we could make a general review of investment policies in operation by the state treasurer since 1955 to determine if all financial institutions are able to fairly participate."

Kehoe was born in Kansas City, Mo. He has a B.S. degree in economics and history and an M.A. in public administration. He is a Ph.D. candidate at George Washington University and a member of Phi Delta Kappa. He served three years in the Army counter-intelligence corps, rising in rank from private to captain.

He lives in Sacramento with his wife and two daughters.

He began his career in public service 17 years ago as assistant city manager in Hayward. In 1969 he was invited by Gov. Reagan to join his staff as an education consultant. A year later he was appointed legislative secretary to act as liaison between legislators and the administration. In 1972 he was named director of consumer affairs.

He said his opponent, Unruh, 52, who is receiving a $754 a month pension from the legislature, has not fully disclosed facts regarding his occupation.

"He lists himself as vice president of National Prepaid Health Plan, Inc.," said Kehoe, "and said his role was advisory. Later he appeared before the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors to sell the county a health insurance package for its employes. Seven months later the firm was broke."

Fire damages home heavily

A fire, possible started from a malfunction in a forced air furnace, roared through a two-story wood frame home at 1752 E. Granada Court in Ontario Thursday causing an estimated $35,000 damage.

Ontario firemen received the alarm about 5:06 a.m. and rushed two engine companies and a truck company to the scene. When firemen arrived the fire that apparently started in a furnace closet between the kitchen and living room had climbed up the walls and spread into the upstairs hallway and bedroom area.

The 17 firemen on the scene battled the blaze for 25 minutes before bringing it under control. Ontario Fire Capt. Emmett Reese sustained a slightly sprained ankle when he fell through the second floor.

Firemen said the Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Sanfin, owners of the home, were out of town when the blaze erupted.

Ski, physical fitness classes

Ski fitness and men's and women's physical fitness classes are being offered at Pomona Valley YMCA.

The ski fitness class for beginners, as well as advanced skiers, is designed to develop and strengthen muscles needed to prevent injuries. It will begin Monday.

The course will meet at 7 p.m. for an hour, with 20 minutes exercise and the rest for lecture. There will be five class meetings, each on Monday.

Cost is $3 for members and $7.50 for nonmembers.

The men's physical fitness course will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 7:15 to 8. The women's version will meet the same mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m., and on Monday and Wednesday nights from 6 to 8:30 p.m. The classes are free to members.

Further information is available by calling the Y at 623-6833.

Benefit for drug rehab unit

A benefit banquet for Jericho Outreach, the drug rehabilitation program in Chino, will be held Saturday from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Community Building, Chino.

The menu will include enchiladas, beans, rice, salad, coffee and soft drinks. Ice cream will be served for dessert.

The dinner is $1.50 per adult and $1 for children under 12.

Nora Lamb, a refugee from the Communist takeover in mainland China 35 years ago, will be the after-dinner speaker. Mrs. Lamb, now a resident of San Jose, will tell how her religious convictions and faith saved her from the turmoil of the revolution between Communist and Nationalist forces in China.

Jericho Outreach offers drug rehabilitation through a Christ-centered program. Sonny Navarro is director of the center at 5171 G St.

Navarro extended appreciation to West End and valley residents who contributed canned goods, clothing, toys and shoes for a missionary trip to Ejido, Sonora, Mexico. The items were distributed to poor families, a juvenile hall facility and a Bible institute with a program similar to Jericho.

Trout derby slated at park

The first of six trout derbies will be held Saturday through Nov. 10 at the Cucamonga-Guasti Regional Park.

Competition will be in two categories: heaviest catch for five fish for adults and juniors, and heaviest single fish for adults and juniors.

Persons over 16 must have state fishing licenses in their possession. In addition, trout tickets are required. Fees are $2 for adults and $1 for juniors. Ticket funds will be used to purchase more trout for the fishing season.

Prizes include trophies for first place; ribbons and prizes for second and third places; and ribbons and trout ticket for fourth place.

Besides fishing lakes, the county regional park has a tackle and bait shop, paddleboat rentals, picnic grounds and large children's playground.

Dynamics names vice president of missile work

The appointment of Robert M. Kemp as vice president of the Standard missile programs at General Dynamics Pomona has been announced by Dr. Leonard F. Buchanan, general manager of the plant.

In his new assignment, Kemp is responsible for Standard Missile I, currently in production; Standard Missile II, an advanced version now under development; plus standard active and the surface-to-surface antiradiation missiles, both currently in development phases.

Kemp, prior to his appointment, had served in numerous engineering and program management capacities at the Pomona division. His most recent assignment was program director of the Standard Missile II.

GOP candidates to meet voters

Two Republican candidates seeking office in Nov. 5 elections will meet Diamond Bar voters at a meeting Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brandt at 546 Bregante Ave., Diamond Bar.

They are Rep. Del Clawson, R-32nd Dist., Compton, his party's nominee in the new 33rd Congressional District, and William B. "Bill" Campbell, former assemblyman and Republican nominee in the new 60th Assembly District.

The meeting was arranged by a citizen's group and the Diamond Bar Republican Club.

Ex-Brandt aide to appear at college

Klaus Harpprecht, a special consultant to former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, will discuss "Contemporary Germany" at 11 a.m. Monday in La Feera Hall of La Verne College.

An author of numerous books and documentary films, Harpprecht is also the former managing editor of the political and literary magazine, Mimut. Until last May he was one of Brandt's chief consultants on affairs of state.

Students to get help on choosing college

A college information day is scheduled Monday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. at Chaffey College to help students make decisions about their educations.

Information booths will be staffed in the Free Speech area by representatives from both private and state universities and colleges.

Casa Colina expansion opens up many jobs for volunteers

Casa Colina Hospital has numerous openings for volunteers now due to the recent expansion of rehabilitation services, according to Susan Davis, director of volunteers.

Volunteer service supplements the work of the nursing, dietary, therapy, office and maintenance staffs. Openings exist for clerical aides, typists, recreation aides, dining room aides, women to sew and tour guides.

"Volunteering at Casa Colina is a most unusual and rewarding experience," Mrs. Davis says. "We're so different than most other hospitals that volunteers are surprised at first. For instance, our patients are not sick in the usual sense, you know. They are busy and active, dressed and moving about. You seldom find patients in their room. There are no quiet signs at Casa Colina. Emphasis is on cordiality, friendliness and activity."

Volunteers contribute as much time as they wish, on a regularly scheduled basis. Orientation to hospital service is provided by the director, and all volunteers are trained by department heads for their specific assignments. Day, evening Saturday and Sunday assignments are available for men and women 19 and over and for students from 14 to 18.

Young people interested in participating in the junior volunteer program may attend the Candy Striper meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the hospital. A parent must accompany the applicant.

An orientation for new adult volunteers will be held Nov. 8 at 10 a.m. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Davis at 593-7502.

Senator Ayala rates full term

State Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, Democrat, who now represents the 20th Senatorial District, has well served his constituents as a member of the Chino school board, mayor of Chino, a San Bernardino County supervisor and as a state legislator.

He now seeks to represent the newly created 32nd Senatorial District which includes his home town of Chino plus other valley cities of Pomona, Montclair and Ontario.

Since elected to the state Senate last January to fill the unexpired term of Bill Combs, Ayala has made his presence be known. He cast the first "no" vote on a state budget he believed was too fat. Later, $75 million in proposed spendings were trimmed.

He was also one of several legislators who introduced and supported bills to repeal a controversial pension plan for some departing lawmakers whose districts were changed by reapportionment.

These actions are supportive of his "watch-dog" role on taxpayers' money. Thus the Progress-Bulletin believes he should be returned to Sacramento to serve a four-year term.

Congress opts for morals over night

Two recent compromises arrived at between Congress and the President suggest that this nation is at long last returning to certain principles that have guided it for most of its history.

The first had to do with the question of military aid to Turkey, the second with future U.S.-Soviet trade relations.

A majority in both houses — though not the two-thirds majority needed to override a presidential veto — had demanded an immediate and total cutoff of military shipments to Turkey because that country's invasion of Cyprus violated U.S. law requiring that such aid be used for defensive purposes only.

In the compromise, the ban will be postponed until Dec. 10, unless in the meantime Turkey violates the cease-fire agreement, increases its forces on Cyprus or transfers additional U.S. "implements of war" to the island.

In the other compromise, Russia will be required to permit the annual emigration of a minimum of 60,000 of its citizens, mostly Jews desiring to go to Israel, in return for liberalized trade concessions.

Congress simply did not buy the argument advanced by the President and the secretary of state that an aid cutoff would antagonize Turkey, jeopardize the Cyprus peace negotiations and possibly cause a serious rift in the NATO alliance. Or if it did buy it, Congress decided that some things were more important than the questionable necessity of maintaining Turkey as a bastion against a potential Soviet military thrust into the eastern Mediterranean.

Nor was Congress frightened by Leonid Brezhnev's warning not to mix politics with trade.

Congressional disenchantment with our decades-old cold-war policy of arming and supporting any regime so long as it was nominally anti-Communist has been a long time a-building. The events of 1974 — Cyprus, the collapse of the Greek dictatorship and revelations about the CIA's role in "destabilizing" the government of Marxist President Allende of Chile — merely brought it to a focus.

President Ford has defended our actions in Chile on the ground that "the other side does it" and that to frustrate the designs of the enemy we must adopt the methods of the enemy.

Yet if any government deserved "destabilizing" by us, it was that of the Greek military dictators. Had it not been for them, there would have been no Turkish invasion of Cyprus. But because we placed such overriding value on a handful of bases in Greece, we now find ourselves in the situation where we may have lost not only the bases but the trust and friendship of both countries.

Ironically, at the same time the President defended our right to meddle in the internal affairs of Chile, we were told that the realities of U.S.-Soviet detente precluded our taking a stand on behalf of human rights in the Soviet Union.

The fundamental question which Americans seem finally to be bringing themselves to address is whether America is so weak, so desperately dependent upon the allegiance of dubious allies, that our survival in the face of militant communism (or our accommodation with it) requires the sacrificing, or at best the putting aside, of the very values we would defend.

Although we seem at times to have forgotten it, this country retains strengths that cannot be measured in terms of armaments or allies. This is still the land of freedom and opportunity to which tens of millions around the world still look for leadership. Our moral example, not our missiles, is our real fortress.

By its action on Turkish military aid and Soviet emigration, Congress has lifted up a banner of liberty, integrity and decency we had permitted to dip rather low in recent years.

Prop. A won't hurt local merchants

It is obvious from recent editorials and news stories in the Progress-Bulletin that certain aspects of Proposition A, the transit improvement referendum on the November ballot, are being strongly questioned in the Pomona area.

Most of the concern involves the alleged suffering merchants would suffer in east Los Angeles County because their customers would henceforth do their shopping in San Bernardino County, due to a lower sales tax rate.

This would probably not be the case, according to a study made in a similar situation in northern California. San Francisco County has for some time had a higher sales tax rate than neighboring San Mateo County. The internationally known consulting firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., found that there was no evidence of any mass exodus of shoppers looking to save a few pennies — after all, we are talking about saving a possible $2 on a $200 purchase. The variance in retail prices on both sides of the county line and the travel time and distance involved make it in most cases not worthwhile to even consider the tax factor as a determinant in where to shop.

It is important to note that those who say that a person could save $80 on a $5,000 auto purchase are disavowing — sales tax rate on autos, as well as motorhomes and motorcycles, are based on the purchaser's home residence, not on the location of the dealer's showroom or lot. Thus any Pomona resident who go to Ontario to purchase an auto won't experience any tax reduction bonanza.

Riverside County has just had its smoggiest September in three years. Pollution control officials there attribute this smog increase in large part to the absence of RTD buses (put due to the work stoppage) — an absence which meant on many days the addition of 125 tons of pollution to the already dirty Los Angeles County air. This increase was caused by more persons having to rely on more auto trips to accomplish their daily tasks. And regrettably, as your readers know all too well, much of this dirty air finds its way to the Pomona area.

Proposition A offers the community benefits in increased mobility and employment opportunities. It offers the chance to reduce our dependence on foreign oil. In short, it offers us a choice — a yes vote says we want to improve public transportation, a no vote says we are content with a barely adequate level. And the cost for the dramatic improvements to the average family of four would be less than a dollar a week in added taxes — money that would almost certainly continue to be spent right where it always has been. — Thomas G. Neuson, Director and President, Southern California Rapid Transit District.

Double billing for officials' junket

WASHINGTON — Three top government officials charged the taxpayers for a California vacation this year after a government contractor had already picked up the bills.

The high-living trio reached at least one official decision between sunning and sipping at Palm Springs. They extended their host's million-dollar contract.

Not long afterward, one of the officials financed a salmon-fishing trip in Alaska with federal funds.

The woolly tale began with the contract award to Grey Advertising, a prestigious New York firm, to promote the government's alcohol abuse program.

The three men responsible for the million-dollar contract were top officials of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism — its director Dr. Morris Chafetz, his deputy Kenneth Eaton and public affairs head Harry Bell.

When the contract came up for renewal this March, the three officials arranged to hold their negotiations in balmy Palm Springs near the vacation home of a top company executive.

Naturally, Dr. Chafetz didn't want to travel second-class to such a fashionable place. So he wangled first-class tickets from the government, claiming leg ailments. In the past, the leg trouble hasn't kept him from playing tennis or shooting the slopes on skis. The other two officials also flew in luxury so they could travel with their boss.

At Palm Springs' exclusive Tennis Club, the trio and their wives settled into $50-a-night rooms. They billed the government the maximum $25 a day for the five-day stay.

They neglected to mention in their expense accounts, however, that their bills had already been paid by the New York advertising firm's subsidiary, Grey-North. The total tab, counting the expenses of the advertising executives, came to $2,540.68.

Of course, the advertising firm charged off the $2,540.68 against its government contract. Thus, the taxpayers wound up paying twice for the three officials' California vacation.

A few days after they left Palm Springs, the officials renewed the million-dollar contract. As far as we could determine, the firm is doing a good job.

The following July, one of the vacationers, Harry Bell, chartered a private airplane in Alaska and took Grey-North Vice President Fred Kline and other business friends on a salmon-fishing trip.

Bell submitted an official travel request for transportation from Anchorage to Tyonek village on July 27, 1974. We have learned that he actually flew to Buichkina Lake to fish.

The following day, he made a travel request from Anchorage to Kenai, although he actually took another fishing trip to Mull Lake. The taxpayers were stuck for $586 for these fishing expeditions. It was an unhappy experience for Bell; he caught only one salmon.

The three officials, Chafetz, Eaton and Bell, called the double billing a mistake. They did not intend to cheat the government, the told us. Chafetz pointed out that he could increase his income 500 per cent by leaving the government and practicing private psychiatry. All three vehemently denied that the favors from Grey-North affected their decision to renew the company's million-dollar contract.

How much is too much welfare?

We who are able have an obligation to the old, the ailing and the needy. The poor, the Bible says, we will always have with us. Some will always need to be cared for by others.

But when do you say when? How much is too much welfare? What is the future of the welfare state in the United States? Well, let's see what happened to a nation which had a head start on us: Denmark.

Denmark has had a welfare state since the great worldwide depression of the Thirties. First, the government offered to take care of the needs of the needy. Gradually, politicians elected on that promise felt forced to expand their promises to include the wants of the wanty.

No nation can afford to pay for those very long. Today, the average Dane makes about $275 a week, but he immediately gives more than half of that to his government in taxes.

The tax on income is such that there is no incentive to work hard, to earn more, to move up. Government subsidy for the poor — a tax-free subsidy — makes it more profitable to loaf than to work. Sound familiar?

Wage earners, fed up with supporting the nonworkers, have formed their own political party. In the last election, last December, that "antispending party" won 28 seats in Parliament!

I believe Denmark will be forced to hold another election this year. The leader of those opposed to government handouts, Mogens Glistrup, demands lower taxes "however necessary."

Denmark at a glance: The nation which used to export only ham and cheese in the past dozen years has become an industrial exporter. But while exports have been rising, imports, especially oil, have been rising faster. Denmark's balance of payments is $2 billion in the red this year.

Foreign debts now total $8 billion, which is one-sixth of that nation's gross national product.

Denmark shares the inflation common to all industrial nations where workers have wanted more for producing less. New housing costs so much that home building is off 50 per cent this year. Retail prices increased 15 per cent last year.

Unemployment, supposedly nonexistent in a true welfare state, is now so high that Danish construction workers are going to Norway to get in on the North Sea oil boom.

These taxpayers who are politically organized have begun what they promise is a takeover. They are saying no, not just to more welfare spending; Glistrup wants to abolish military spending as well.

When asked what his nation would do if invaded by Russia, he said, "Put up a sign on the beach saying, 'We surrender.'"

With such dogmatism he is winning an increasing following, forcing the incumbent government to compromise on economic issues. Everywhere in revolutions, the workers rebelled against the profits of the rich.

In Denmark's new revolution, the workers are rebelling against the professional poor.

Just in jest

Whatever happened to the those good old days when accommodating Arabs always folded their tents and silently stole away? — Why did colorful old time endurance contests such as flagpole sitting and marathon dancing have to give way to things like non-stop onion peeling? — And while we're sighing for what is not, let's weep a tear or two for the demise of the ancient belief that children should be seen and not heard. Now there's a brand new cause called "Children's Rights." And taking a tip from their crusading elders, the kids have gone all out to gain national recognition by picketing a dime store in Washington, D.C.

It's all very frustrating to this Old Timer who is noted for his reluctance to let the dead past bury its dead. And so you can imagine how overjoyed he was recently when he learned that there are still places where some things never change — like flies in San Francisco, for instance. They're still there and just as ornery as ever — so ornery in fact that, according to a recent news item, pet stores in the City on the Bay are reporting a run on flea collars. San Franciscans are not buying them for their pets however; they're wearing them themselves.

Reform remedy not remedy at all

WASHINGTON — The paragraphs Senate and House conferees voted to eliminate from the "revolutionary" clean elections law recently signed by President Ford are more significant than the bewildering maze of do's and don'ts which were left in.

Congress passed the wrong bill.

We would have cleaner politics if the Senate and House had scrapped the 48-page law as passed and substituted 49 lines they eliminated.

The paragraphs that so offended the House of Representatives were simple and direct. Of them, thirty-nine would have required congressmen, congressional and presidential candidates and federal employes earning $25,000 or more to report in detail their financial dealings and possible conflicts of interest that included:

1. Any stocks bought and sold each year in excess of $1,000.

2. Any commodity transactions in excess of $1,000.

3. Any purchase or sale of real property worth more than $1,000, excluding only the buying or selling of a private residence.

4. Taxes paid the previous year.

5. The amount and source of each item of income greater than $100, including honorariums and gifts of goods and services.

6. A list of current assets and liabilities valued at more than $1,000.

These reports would be open to the press and the public. Those who neglected to expose their dealings could be sentenced to five years in prison.

Another 10-line section of the Senate bill which was eliminated was equally stringent. It would have, in essence, made any phone call from a congressman (or any other outsider) to a regulating agency a matter of open record. It would thus have made public each and every attempt by senators and representatives (and members of the executive branch, including the president) to influence the actions of regulating agencies on anti-trust matters, the licensing of radio and TV stations, the regulation of railways, trucking firms and barge lines, the assignment of air routes and other actions which could give millions of dollars in benefits to some parties and-or take away millions from others.

It is not difficult to understand why the House of Representatives insisted on striking these provisions. The publicity called for would have made known the immoral conflicts of interest of many men in the legislature. It would have brought into the open congressional self-serving activities which cost the public millions (perhaps billions) a year. It would have exposed the payoffs a goodly number of congressmen receive to vote for or against bills, and for interfering with the honest enforcement of laws.

Laws limiting campaign giving and spending will not clean up elections. Candidates and donors equipped with ingenious attorneys will find ways to circumvent the law. Only publicity on candidates, office holders and their associates, their sources of income, backers, financial connections and obligations will make it possible for voters to throw out those rascals who pervert the system.

A bill to remedy the loopholes noted above has been introduced in the Senate. Its backers don't think it will pass this year. By 1975, the public pressure resulting from Watergate will have faded. The outlook for reform is not good.

Ardent competitor finds contest blanks elusive

This may seem unreal to most people but I know I'm not alone in finding it fun to enter sweepstakes and to send for refunds.

Many of the reliable manufacturers are giving away thousands of dollars each year and I enjoy trying to get a part of it!

In 1963 I won a car and a boat from the Colgate Co. and in 1972 I won $3,500 worth of circles from Sugar-Twin.

My problem is getting the necessary entry blanks for the sweepstakes and forms for the many generous refund offers.

This is a form of advertising so I don't know why it is hard to find the necessary required blanks.

I go to several stores each week in search of them but seldom have any luck. When I inquire, the clerk says the dealer didn't leave any!

I read in a refund bulletin that it is up to the store people whether they want to oblige their customers and display these forms.

Can you possibly find out which stores might be more apt to offer this accommodation?

I am a senior citizen and enjoy the hobby of contesting and obtaining refunds very much.

Some of my friends also are interested.—L.T., Pomona.

A representative of a Stater Bros. market near your home says that salesmen for individual companies leave contest and refund forms in front of their products.

That indicates that the clerk you talked with may have been right in telling you no forms had been left.

The Progress-Bulletin also sometimes carries contest instruction and forms in its advertising columns. Contests even appear among the comics.

You obviously are wise in the ways of contests. We urge others less experienced to beware of those conducted through the mail which require a sum of money to advance to a second stage.

Two years ago or longer I sent in a clipping from an advertisement to Citadel Records.

I was to receive 10 stereo albums for $2.49 and agree to purchase seven in the following 12 months.

Albums they mailed initially were not the 10 offered in the agreement. There were only three. They were so badly warped that I could not play them.

Also sent were seven gift certificates for albums supposedly out of stock.

I returned the three warped albums and picked out seven others to complete the initial agreement.

Finally the seven gift certificate albums arrived. They were not the albums I had asked for, they were warped and I got charged for every one of them.

I immediately returned them and told the company to forget the whole thing. I have since been billed many times for the initial $2.49. I finally gave up and paid it.

Then I was sent statement for $45. I got angry and wrote a letter complaining about the albums and procedures. The only answer I ever received was more statements.

I hope that in some way you will be able to get this cleared up. —Mrs. S. C., Pomona

After we wrote to Citadel Records, you received a letter stating your account had been canceled as requested.

You were advised that you might receive further bills but to disregard them or send them to the firm's customer service representative.

ANN LANDERS

Visit by young to well-heeled older kin makes for richer experience

Dear Ann Landers: I am an attorney who is disturbed by the number of elderly clients who bring in their wills to be revised. They have drawn lines through the names of nieces, nephews, and sometimes even grandchildren. When I ask if there is any particular reason, they often say, "I never hear from them. I guess they aren't interested."

I am not advocating that young people butter up aging relatives just so they will be remembered in a will, but I suspect that too often young folks are reluctant to be attentive because they don't want to be accused of "being nice to Uncle Richard or Aunt Mathilda because they want to be left something."

Please tell your young readers that older people need love and attention, and the older they get the more they need it. Ask them to make an effort to go see an aging relative — spend an hour, send a postcard, write a letter. It will be good for everybody. — One Who Knows

Dear One: You've made an extraordinary point. Relatives should not be discriminated against because they are rich. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: You raised one daughter — no sons. This explains your lack of understanding when women write to say their kids make them so nervous they just can't help but thrash them within an inch of their lives.

I have two boys and I am pregnant again. I just know this third child is a boy because I am carrying it all in front, like with the other two. Being pregnant makes me short-tempered and I admit I have beat up on my two boys more than I should, but I just can't control myself. Boys are a lot harder to raise than girls, but then you wouldn't know about that.

I talked to my pastor about the problem last week and he said, "Children are born full of the devil and it's up to parents to beat it out of them."

What do you have to say about THAT, Ann Landers? — Breaking Point

Dear Point: I say your pastor should be in another line of work. — like chopping wood or shoveling coal, something that requires physical energy. He needs an outlet for his hostility — something besides his mouth, that is.

For you, I recommend Parents Anonymous. The address is 2009 Farrell Avenue, Redondo Beach, California 90278. Or CALM, P. O. Box 778, Santa Barbara, California 93102. These organizations are for parents who beat their children and know they need help. Good luck to you.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago a friend of mine sent away for something she saw advertised in a magazine. It was guaranteed to enlarge her bust size. She sent $20.

When the "kit" arrived, she nearly fainted. It was a man's hand made out of plastic.

I think this is a stinkin' racket and I told my friend that she has the right to insist on a refund. What is your opinion? — Very Disgusted

Dear Very: I think she should save her stamps. Unless the ad said, "Guaranteed satisfaction or money refunded," she might as well forget it. Even WITH a guarantee, it is often an endless procedure.

At the risk of boring my readers to death, I'll say it one more time. Creams, exercise gimmicks, and assorted paraphernalia you see advertised to enlarge the bust are just wonderful — for the outfits that sell them. They do very little, however, for the Flat Florences of this world — except to relieve them of their money.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Lander's P.O. Box 3400, Elgin, Ill., 60120.

RATTLES & STRAWS

Why did anyone discover America?

By JOSEPH H. FURMAN

Goodbye, Columbus!

After hundreds of years of venerating the courageous Italian navigator, the world learns that he was not "the discoverer" of America but a Christopher-come-lately in a long string of sea captains from all over Europe who had set foot on the warm and rockbound coast that was to become the continent of North America.

Columbus, as those spoil-sport historians report with glee, didn't actually reach the mainland on that voyage. He landed on San Salvador, now Watlings Island in the Bahamas, and mistakenly thought he was in the East Indies (some navigator!) so the indigens-in-residence were termed Indians. The final irony was served up when another Italian explorer, Amerigo Vespucci, discovered South America and knew he had hit upon a continent, so the name America (Anglo-Saxon for Amerigo) was tagged on the New World.

Before these two adventurers made it across the briny, a steady stream of sea captains, pirates, fishermen and explorers had reached the New World, according to scholars, historians and archeologists. Ireland's Brendan the Navigator reached America in the 6th Century; Lief Ericsson did likewise in the 10th Century, and Irish, Basque, Norse and Portuguese fishermen crossed to America to fish the banks off Newfoundland like Sunday sailors heading for Catalina. Columbus probably had to stand in line to get ashore.

The latest pre-Columbian sailor reported is a Scottish nobleman, Henry Sinclair, Earl of Orkney, who is somewhat reliably reported to have wintered in Nova Scotia (shudder) and visited Massachusetts (shudder) in 1398, almost 200 years before Columbus touched base in the Bahamas.

Historian-educator Frederick J. Pohl of New York has hit the book stalls with his latest oeuvre, "Prince Henry Sinclair: His Expedition to the New World in 1398." Not a snappy title as best-sellers go, but we get the message.

Pohl's research can only be described as fragmented. Tracing the life history of the Earl of Orkney, he stumbled over—in some Venetian archives—and account of the Early voyage to Amerigo. Then he "happened" into a meeting of the Explorers' Club in New York City and heard a description of the exact area Sinclair was supposed to have landed—a spot marked by the only place in 1,000 miles where hot pitch flowed to the sea. Further substantiation came when Pohl learned of an Algonkin Indian legend describing the arrival of the white warriors. The redskins called him Glooscap, which is not much of an improvement over the Earl of Orkney, but they liked him. And the final bit of evidence Pohl came up with was an effigy of a knight carved in a rock near Westford, Mass. The heraldic emblems on the shield are very similar to those of Sinclair's clan. I think you could take the case to court.

So I guess we should knock off Columbus Day and observe Orkney Day. Or possibly Leif Ericsson Day or Brendan the Navigator Day.

It's not "Who's on first?" it's "Who got here first?"

THE DOCTOR COMMENTS

Don't get upset by technical terms

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently had an electrocardiogram (ECG) taken in my doctor's office. The tracings indicated "definitely abnormal curve." No medication was prescribed, and I was not advised as to the condition. I am a woman 57 years old and would appreciate your opinion and what precautions should be taken.

DEAR READER — Electrocardiographic interpretations are not the same thing as a diagnosis of a disease. They are used, along with all the other tests, the physical examination and your history to help the doctor make a diagnosis.

Such a nonspecific interpretation doesn't mean much. It only means that your tracing is not like the majority of known healthy people, when the test is taken under standard conditions.

Minor changes can occur from anxiety, from having eaten something before the test, or even from how the electrodes are placed on the chest.

Since your doctor did not say anything about your heart, I would presume he thought the changes were minor and not of the type that were indicative of a disease or medical problem.

So, I don't think you need to worry about this and would not have any advice to you about precautions — other than not to get too excited about the technical jargon that doctors use and to put more reliance on what he tells you. Anyone who has a test that he is worried about should ask his doctor about it. But, don't jump to conclusions that such a test means important medical problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My condition has been diagnosed as hypertrophic gastritis. Would you please explain this condition to me? They also found that I have thickening of the lining of the walls of the stomach.

I was told to quit smoking and drinking. I smoked about a half pack of cigarettes a day and drank about eight to 10 shots of brandy a week. I'm still smoking about a half pack of cigarettes a week and drink perhaps four or five shots of brandy a week, just when I go out.

I'm not on a diet and was told to eat what I could tolerate. I have very little appetite. However, I do try to eat a balanced diet. For the past month I have lost my sense of taste. My condition is not malignant. I'm middle-aged. Would you please advise me?

DEAR READER — Gladly. Follow your doctor's advice. I often wonder how people think they can get well by not following the advice they paid to get. Your doctor's advice is sound and I suspect he also told you to quit drinking coffee, colas and tea. You had better knock off the alcohol and cigarettes completely if you want to avoid problems.

Hypertrophic gastritis refers to an increase in the size of the normal folds of the lining of the stomach. We all normally have folds that resemble the surface of coral. The ridges of these folds contain glands that form the acid digestive juice. When they are enlarged the person affected usually forms too much acid digestive juice and the stomach becomes inflamed, hence the term gastritis.

The condition is much like ulcers and is treated similarly. If you can be managed with avoiding cigarettes, alcohol, and coffee, fine. If not you will have to take medicines commonly used for ulcer patients.

Art auction charted Sunday

A benefit art exhibition and auction will be a highlight of Sunday activities in the valley when Casa Colina Hospital Auxiliary sponsors the event at the hospital from 2 until 5 p.m.

Combined with a wine tasting party, the philanthropic event will aid the youngsters in the hospital's preschool for multihandicapped children. Pianist Peter Stickney will provide music for the festivities.

The exhibition will feature contemporary artists Anne Hershenburgh and Guy Maccoy and will include works of such widely known artists as Lebadang, Mangus and Draming.

Miss Hershenburgh's acrylics and lithographs are in many private collections. Serigraphs by Maccoy are hung in the Smithsonian Museum galleries. Media represented by the works will be oils, acrylics, lithographs, etchings, serigraphs and sculpture.

Approximately 150 art works will be auctioned at below gallery prices, framed, and ready to display, according to Kenneth Benjamin of Jamin Art Auctions. Van Nuys, coordinator of the event.

Mrs. Robert Keith of Claremont, president of Casa Colina Auxiliary, is chairman for the event and will be assisted by Mmes. Jack Bowsey, Pomona; Herbert Johnson, Laszlo Kiraly and Gerald Laws, Claremont; and R.E. Bickerdike, La Verne.

Mrs. Roland Briles, Upland, is acting as liaison representative for the preschool, and Mrs. Susan Davis, director of volunteers at Casa Colina, is coordinating the event for the hospital.

A Message Vital to Every Voter in the Pomona Unified School District!

DR. MARY MONTES

A needless, useless, second hand election is forced upon you because ONE lone member of the Board of Education would not abide by the LAW of the State. This LAW, initiated by the way, by our own former outstanding local Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, is designed to save useless squandering of your money on special elections of this kind.

DR. MARY MONTES, after careful screening and investigation, by your Board, was selected and appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Roy Day (regretfully). Your Board all agreed, except the DIAMOND BAR MEMBER for reasons of his own, on this appointment.

NOW, we strongly urge you to REJECT the UNCALLED FOR, NEEDLESS CANDIDACY OF ONE WE BELIEVE FROM OUR KNOWLEDGE, WOULD ONLY SUBTRACT FROM AND CERTAINLY NOT ADD TO — THE EFFICIENCY, QUALITY, AND BUSINESS LIKE OPERATION OF OUR BOARD IN BEHALF OF ALL OF OUR CHILDREN, OF ALL ETHNIC BACKGROUNDS, AND OF YOU, THE TAXPAYER, WHO PAYS THE BILL.

'As You Like It'

Players do Shakespeare comedy

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The Four Colleges Players of Claremont romped into the Forest of Arden Thursday night in an engaging if unexciting production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

The frivolity continues in Balch Hall, Scripps College, at 8 o'clock tonight through Wednesday.

The set design by Stan Ransom is a delight — a series of trapdoor pastel pillars — trees towering over disc-like platforms offering variable centers of interest and acting focal points. It's a simple, effective and highly imaginative setting that lends greatly to the performance.

Gamboling over the discs and through the trees are a vivacious Linda Grinstead as Rosalind, in pursuit of her amiable but somewhat stolid lover, Richard Hiller (Orlando). Miss Grinstead is a sparkling young lady, full of whimsey and nonsense, as attractive in her boyish "disguise" as in her courtly gowns. Hiller has a pleasant comedic touch which is too often studded by ponderous concern.

As is often the case, the stars of this Elizabethan Neil Simon effort are the clowns. Beefy Brian Tucker lends rich humor and insight to Touchstone, and Ken Sturm's Jaques is a sheer delight. He offers an eloquent, waspish, philosophical and hilarious characterization of professional stump. His hands, in particular, are a text in grace and expressiveness.

Other standouts in the large cast are Cindi Wilding as Celia, the gagging confidante of Rosalind; Bob Pope, a dandified Le Beau, with style; Peter Stone as the mean, older brother, in a strong characterization, and John Burnaget as the banished Duke — a robust and persuasive portrayal.

Pleasantly unique incidental music is provided by flutists Peter Stone and Judy Schwartz, Ann Ponsford on piccolo, and David Wilroy and Michael Bartzmark, lutes. The music helps establish the mood and adds to the enjoyment of the performance.

Mafundi rises from the ashes

Institute much more than a school

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

"A place formed out of the ashes," Mafundi Institute in Watts successfully combines enthusiastic participation in and preparation for the performing arts with community stabilizing services ranging from a pre-school program for welfare mothers to counseling and re-direction activities for street gangs.

Ngoma, executive director of the institute and neighborhood center — who as a Black Nationalist goes only by the one name — recently spoke of the chaos and lack of direction in Watts after the conflagration of 1965. The Watts Happening Coffee Shop opened in a vacant furniture store in 1966 to fill the cultural and social vacuum that had developed, he said.

"You must expose the community totally."

Mafundi, Swahili for craftsman, was born here. As its name signifies, Mafundi exists for the sake of creativity and innovation.

The founders of Mafundi are Dr. J. Alfred Cannon, chief of psychiatry at Martin Luther King Jr. Hospital and president of the institute's board of directors; Ron Karenga, founder and chairman of the Black Nationalist organization US; and Bill Marshall, director of Substance Drug Abuse, a drug rehabilitation program in south Los Angeles.

In 1968, Mafundi was awarded matching grants from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and Los Angeles City Housing Authority for construction of a cultural center at 1827 E. 103rd St. to showcase Black-oriented arts.

Following several funding losses from Kettering Foundation and the federal sponsoring agency Model Cities, the institute is now financed through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, various fund raising projects and private donations.

Besides Ngoma, the coordinators of the three-pronged program of recreation, education and artistic development include James R. Price, administrative assistant and Charles David Brooks III, artistic director.

Moving through the two-story center one continually encounters the richness of the black cultural experience. The director emphasized that this richness has long been denied to the community and Mafundi is dedicated to the purpose of turning that tendency around.

"The social worker attitude of dealing with gang problems won't work."

He sees a direct relationship between a stable educational background and success in the performing arts.

"There's really no conflict in our efforts for education and art mainly because in order to be a proficient artist one must have an educational background," Ngoma said. "The overlying concept in all our classes is discipline. The discipline, for instance, taught in the tutorial program can be used in all of the artistic fields.

"It is not enough for a person to be proficient in one area. You must expose the community totally. We are the last institute in Watts that can offer educational and recreational activities and develop the cultural arts. This makes us a multi-faceted organization."

Ngoma, who holds a bachelor degree in public administration from Cal State, Los Angeles, took over the reins of director six months ago and served in various other voluntary positions for two years. A former gang member who understood the organization and attitudes of the street, he possesses a strong belief in the worth of drama, music and art in redirecting the gang member.

"One thing I do believe is that the social worker attitude of dealing with gang problems won't work," he said. There has to be a more practical method used toward redirecting their energy rather than trying to suppress them."

With this in mind, Mafundi helped organize Brothers Unlimited, a conglomeration of most of the Los Angeles gangs. Seminars, conferences, recreation and dances are part of the organization's program at Mafundi.

"We have no problems with them. We make them police themselves," the director boasted.

The artistic program is guided by Brooks who is currently working on a master's degree in fine arts specializing in theatrical directing at UCLA.

The arts program and teaching staff includes ballet and tap dance, Stenvane Robinson; Afro and modern dance, Takisa; jazz workshops, pianist and Black Jazz Records president Gene Russell; adult drama, Brooks and professional actor Roger Mosley; children's theater, Dwayne Polk and the Jordan-Locke Community Adult School; creative writing, Pamela Douglas sketching, watercolor and oil painting, crafts and sculpting, Richard Watson; radio broadcasting, Jay Bell and a host of field trips and after-school indoor sports for children. During the summer, the institute feeds approximately 400 children in a special lunch program.

Cassandra Tillman, Minnie Richardson and Alice Weathers, all Watts mothers, are volunteer coordinators of the youth program.

Anna Lucas is director of the pre-school program for 2½ to five-year-old children. Beginning basics are taught here to prepare the children for the school experience.

A tutorial service will be implemented this week to provide assistance to elementary through high school students in the areas of reading, math, phonics, writing and general counseling for emotional and school problems.

Beginning Nov. 30 and continuing each Saturday night through Dec. 28, the institute will offer a dance and show from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. The Hell-Storm Band — composed of Teddy Rapp, musical director and lead vocalist; John Thomas, bass guitarist; Marcael Holmes, pianist; Wayman Henry, lead guitarist; and Keith Whitner, drummer — and the Stings, a male vocal group, will be the featured musical aggregations for the affairs.

Don Dixon coordinates the cable television program that is utilized in conjunction with drug rehabilitation at the center.

The participants in the Mafundi program will soon begin design and creation of artistic projects for the second World Black African Festival of Arts and Culture to be held in Lagos, Nigeria, November through December 1975.

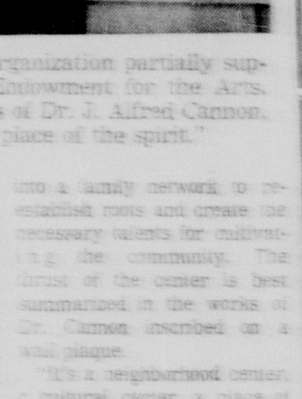
"We'll present drama, directing, designing, sculpting, painting projects; projects in every mode you can think of," said Brooks.

Brooks will also serve as liaison between UCLA and Mafundi in a cultural exchange program to begin shortly.

Mafundi is action-oriented, drawing the total community into a family network to reestablish roots and create the necessary talents for cultivating the community. The thrust of the center is best summarized in the words of Dr. Cannon inscribed on a wall plaque.

"It's a neighborhood center, a cultural center, a place of convening, a place of communing, a place of remembering, . . . a place of the spirit, a place of hope and confidence and belief. It's our place. It's our past, present and future. It links us back to 1965, the year of the fire, and it links us back to ancient and ancestral times. It houses the concept of Mafundi and Ma'at. It's one voice . . . finally."

"It's our past, present and future."



Bullet-proof vests okayed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Policemen will soon be wearing bullet-proof vests.

A $200,000 proposal to buy the plastic vests, worn under the uniform shirt, for the 2,000 men of the SFPD was approved by the city Board of Supervisors this week. The vests cost $100 each.

A patrolman's life was saved earlier this year when a vest halted a slug at point-blank range.

No quick count—referee

NEW YORK (UPI) — "There was no quick count. And there was no loosening of the ropes. It sounds to me like George Foreman is just looking for an out."

With those words Zach Clayton, the third man in the ring when Muhammad Ali knocked out George Foreman to win back the heavyweight championship in Zaire, hoped to put an end to a growing controversy paralleled in boxing history only by the Gene Tunney-Jack Dempsey "long count" bout in 1927.

Clayton, 51, returned to his home in Philadelphia Thursday satisfied he had done his job well refereeing the "rumble in the jungle" in Kinshasa Wednesday morning. But he soon found himself accused by Foreman of having administered a quick count when he counted the 25-year-old former champion out at 2:58 of the eighth round.

"My head was clear at four," said Foreman Thursday. "In my mind I picked it up at four and beat the count."

Clayton gives a different version.

"The count begins the second his knee touches the canvas," Clayton said. "As soon as Foreman went down I turned around to direct Ali to a neutral corner. He started in that direction and that was good enough for me. He doesn't have to be standing exactly in the corner for the count to begin.

"I whirled around and picked up the count just before the tick of three. He was laying on his back at four and was still on his back at five. When I said six he started to stir. No way in the world a person exhausted and hurt could make an attempt to clear the deck when he's still on his back at six. I even shouted the count right in his ear to wake him up. Sometimes you can do that.

"Foreman rolled over. He was in the center of the ring so he couldn't grab onto the ropes to help himself up. He had nothing to reach for and he was in no condition to jump up. I was still shouting the numbers at him but he was turning over slowly. When I reached nine he was on his knees. When I reached 10 he still had one hand or one knee, I forget which, on the canvas. Either way, he wasn't standing."

Clayton said he was puzzled and disturbed over Foreman's comments and even more surprised to hear that Ali was not certain either.

"I don't really know," Ali said of Foreman's accusation. "He may be right. I don't know. The referee's the man who made the decision."

Foreman also complained that Ali's handlers loosened the ropes, on which Ali relied for much of the fight to nullify the force of Foreman's punches, and that the canvas was too soft.

"I checked the ropes and walked all around the mat checking for soft spots before the fight," said Clayton, "and so did Dick Sadler, Foreman's trainer. Nobody had anything to complain about. The ropes were tight and the mat was regulation. As matter of fact it was Ali's corner that asked me, I think about the fifth or sixth round, to tighten up the ropes. Ali was leaning against them so much they loosened up a little and that was not good for Ali. Before the sixth round I told someone to tighten the ropes by my corner and if the round started to keep tightening them.

"There was no quick count. And there was no loosening of the ropes. It sounds to me like George Foreman is just looking for an out.

"And the funny thing is, I talked to George after the fight. I went up to his hotel room the next day and Sadler was there with George. I told George I was sorry he lost and that he was still young, he had youth on his side, and maybe someday he'd get the title back. He and Sadler both thanked me for handling the fight so well. They both said I did a good job and I appreciated that. They didn't say anything then about any complaints.

"Maybe George is a little embarrassed now but that's not very sportsmanlike. A man gets beat, he should admit he's beaten. Let him come back and try to win it back. But don't say you were cheated.

"Hell, George was tired around the fourth round. He was swinging like a lumberjack when he should have paced himself. He tired himself out. He was more exhausted than hurt and if the fight had kept going, I think Ali might have seriously hurt him. At the point it was stopped I had Ali 4-2-1 on my cards."

Tunney's 'long count' decision

When Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney met in a return match at Soldiers' Field in Chicago on Sept. 23, 1927, a crowd of 104,943, who paid a record live gate of $2,658,660 came to cheer for Dempsey to regain the title. The cheers rose to a huge roar in the seventh round when Dempsey finally caught up and smashed Tunney to the canvas.

Tunney was stunned and Dempsey stood over him to complete the knockout as soon as he rose to his feet. The referee ordered Dempsey to a neutral corner under the new rule that had just been installed, but Dempsey continued to glower down at the fallen champion as the seconds ticked away.

Finally, Dempsey realized his mistake and went to a corner. The referee took up the count, but in those few precious seconds—four, according to timekeepers watch replays on film—Tunney had recovered his wits enough to struggle to his feet before the count of 10. Only Tunney ever knew whether he could have beaten the count without the extra time and he always insisted that he was only taking advantage of the situation afforded him and could have arisen in time anyway.

After that close brush, Tunney pursued his jab and run tactics and hurt Dempsey several times. Once again at the end, Dempsey was barely able to stand from the beating he took and the 10-round decision went to Tunney.

NFL won't absorb WFL

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle has issued a strong "forget it" to those World Football League fans hopeful of seeing their local franchises absorbed by the established league in the event of the new league's collapse.

"There will be no complete nor partial merger with the WFL," Rozelle said Thursday, taking the hard line toward the new league and its latest financial plight. "Nor will any of its teams be taken into the NFL.

"I say this very strongly and with complete certainty, even more certainly than I said it about the American Football League."

Rozelle's announcement came shortly after the word that Birmingham, long believed to be one of the strongest WFL franchises, was in financial trouble. Already the WFL has folded up franchises in Detroit and Jacksonville, shifted the New York and Houston teams and taken over the Orlando team.

While writing off any thoughts of absorbing the Memphis, Hawaii or Birmingham franchises from the WFL, Rozelle instead announced plans Wednesday for the addition of four teams to the NFL, two in 1976 and two more that year or later. That would bring the league to 30 teams.

Tampa, Fla., and Seattle were chosen to begin operation in 1976. Tom McCloskey, a builder and realtor, was selected to head the Tampa franchise Wednesday but the owners failed to agree upon an owner for the Seattle franchise Thursday.

A group headed by Herman Sarkowsky, owner of the NBA's Portland Trailblazers, is considered to be the leading contender for that Seattle team.

"We've got our own expansion plans," Rozelle said. "There would be just nothing in it for the NFL to take two of the WFL's teams. They're either going to make it or not make it on their own. They're not going to get any help from us."

The WFL has not filed any major suits against the NFL as yet as the AFL did when it attempted to force a merger in the early 1960s and Rozelle, with a sarcastic smile, said "they're playing it cozier this time."

Rozelle also said no WFL players would be allowed to jump to the NFL and play this season either because the WFL season ended or because they were otherwise free agents. Rozelle said that this was only an extension of a policy already in effect in regard to the Canadian leagues and the minor leagues and was continued to include the WFL so that no NFL would be able to stock their teams during the last part of the season with new players.

Pulford happy Kings can tie on 'flat' night

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

INGLEWOOD — Coach Bob Pulford of the Los Angeles Kings is happy his team can earn at least a tie on a night when his team was flat.

"This wasn't one of our better games," was Pulford's first comment after the Kings and St. Louis Blues skated to an 1-1 tie at the Forum Thursday night.

"Even though we were flat, we still got a tie," the coach continued. "We weren't moving the puck well as our passes seemed to be off. Maybe we were a little overconfident."

The tie enabled the Kings to increase its point total to 16 for a four-point advantage in the National Hockey League's Division III over the Montreal Canadiens.

St. Louis, tied for third place in Division II, gave new coach Lynn Patrick in his first game as the mentor after Lou Angotti resigned Wednesday.

The Kings opened the scoring Thursday when Whitey Widing scored the 100th goal of his National Hockey League career on a five-footer with 56 seconds left in the first period. Don Korak's pass set up Widing's fifth goal of the season.

St. Louis' Garry Unger tied it with 7:14 left to go in the game when he skated around the net to catch Kings' goalie Rogie Vachon out of position.

Unger's goal ended Vachon's shutout string at 133 minutes and 56 seconds. He is still averaging only one goal per game in his seven starts.

Vachon saved the Kings in the first period when he made a brilliant save to stop what seemed to be a sure goal by the Blues' Doug Palazzari.

"Rogie saved our bacon with that play," Pulford said.

Both teams took 26 shots on goal in the game with St. Louis' Eddie Johnston at goal for the Blues.

The Blues wasted five power goal opportunities while the Kings couldn't cash in on four manpower advantages. Los Angeles has only allowed four goals in 48 times killing penalties.

Progress-Bulletin PREP PREVIEW

Claremont vs. Pomona at Cal Poly

This is one of the two big games in the San Antonio League tonight, with Pomona hosting the affair at 7:30 p.m. on the Cal Poly field.

Claremont (3-1, 3-3) shares the SAL lead with Damien, and could drop all the way to third place with a loss. However, a loss for Pomona (2-1-1, 2-3-1) would just about put the Red Devils out of the running for the title.

Claremont's offense is based around the experience of quarterback Kent Stalwick, considered the best signal-caller in the league. His running backs will be Dan Thomas and Chuck Purdy, with his primary receiver being Mike Toomay.

Pomona's offense, which seems to be jelling of late, possesses the finesse running of Raymond Butler and the bruising running of fullback Hank Zibell. John Souza will be calling the signals for the Red Devils.

Pomona won the decision last year, 27-21.

Damien vs. Ganesha at MSAC

Here is another big San Antonio League game of the night, with Ganesha holding its homecoming at Mt. San Antonio College, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Giants (2-2, 2-3-1) need a win tonight over the league's co-leader Damien (3-1, 5-1) to remain alive in the SAL title chase.

And in attempting to knock off the Spartans, Ganesha coach Garry Norvell will be changing his starting quarterback.

Reggie Freemen will replace Bill Kearns at the quarterback spot, with Lawrence Jacques, Darryl Gardner and Arthur Lane figuring to complete the Giants' Wishbone offense.

Damien, considered as the best balanced team in the league by the Ganesha coach, will have its running attack led by Ruben Lopez. The Spartans passing attack is provided by quarterback Joe Carroll and receivers Paul Broadway and Steve Gaston.

Ganesha won it last year, 20-7.

Garey at Montclair

Montclair (0-4, 2-4) is still winless in San Antonio League play after winning its two non-league encounters, but the Cavaliers hope to put the Garey Vikings (2-1-1, 2-2-2) out of the running for the league title tonight (7:30 p.m.) on its home field.

The Vikings, the surprise team in the SAL, is only one-half game behind leaders Claremont and Damien, but a loss would just about do them in.

On the other hand, Montclair has nothing to lose. The Cavaliers are all alone in the SAL cellar and have nowhere to go but up. The Cavs will be led by southpaw quarterback Brent Jetton and running backs Jim Donaldson and Larry Wallace.

Montclair figures to pass alot, and Jetton's prime receivers will be Bob Behnke and Al Huggins.

Garey will probably stick to the ground most of the game, with Marcus Thomas calling the signals. Running backs are Dana Hutchison, Doug Hughes, Anthony Green and Stanley Webster.

Garey nipped the Cavaliers last year, 12-6.

Chino at Upland

Chino's chances of reclaiming its San Antonio League title are very slim, but the Cowboys (1-3, 3-3) are determined to have some say as to which team does win it.

They can all but eliminate Upland (2-2, 2-3-1) tonight at the Highlanders' field (7:30 p.m.).

Chino will be at full strength, with Richard Krzysiak again figuring to quarterback the club. The speedsters to watch out of the Cowboys' backfield will be Rick Riedel and Art Carbajal. Sam Souza will probably also see some action back there.

Upland's offense is also based around the run, with Dominic Licavoli scheduled at tailback, while any combination of Mike Rees, Gary Carr or Randy Sanders will probably work out. Running back Mark Chapman (collarbone) is gone for the season, and teammate Mark White (ankle) is a doubtful starter.

Chino nipped the Highlanders last year, 34-0.

Hank's homer record safe from Mr. Oh

TOKYO (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today the major leagues will not recognize Sadaharu Oh, Japan's home run king, as the world's new homer champion even if he eventually overtakes Hank Aaron's home run total.

"We do not recognize records other than those established in the major leagues, "Kuhn said. "But that doesn't mean that we do not have a great deal of respect for Oh's accomplishment. We think he is a terrific ball player."

Kuhn and his wife arrived Thursday as guests of the Yomiuri Shimbun newspaper, which is sponsoring the 18-game goodwill series in Japan of the New York Mets.

Kuhn said he was, "looking forward to the home run hitting contest between Aaron and Oh Saturday. I can't say who will win."

Aaron, 40, who arrives tonight, and Oh, 34, will engage in the duel for half an hour Saturday at the Korakuen Stadium before the Mets-Japan All Stars game.

The contest will be decided by homers made on 20 swings by Aaron and Oh in four alternate sessions of five swings each. Aaron will select a Met pitcher and Oh a Yomiuri Giants pitcher.

"Each pitcher will try to deliver the best pitch for a home run," Kuhn said.

It has been reported that the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) will pay Aaron $50,000, win or lose, and Oh $20,000.

Sadaharu Oh, Japan's home run king (L) and Henry Aaron compare batting stances. The two meet in a home run contest Saturday. Oh has 633 homers, but is only 34 years old.

Lakers-Bucks collide tonight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers return to the Forum for another four-game homestand tonight, hosting the struggling Milwaukee Bucks in the opener.

Milwaukee, which is without star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, has only one win in six games and is in last in the Midwest Division.

Hayes, Griffin eye records in Big Ten battle with Illini

CHICAGO (UPI) — Top-ranked Ohio State could be going for places in football's record book as well as victory Saturday when the Buckeyes face Illinois.

Both running back Archie Griffin and Coach Woody Hayes could reach a landmark in the contest. Griffin, the national rushing leader, will be trying to go over 100 yards for the 18th consecutive regular season game. He now shares the record of 17 with former Oklahoma star Steve Owens.

Hayes' target will be to become the third coach in college football to tutor a team to 200 victories. He scored his 199th, 166 of them in 23 ½ years at Ohio State, against Northwestern last Saturday and should the Buckeyes top Illinois, he would join Pop Warner, with 313, and Paul Bryant, with 238, as the only coaches ever to reach 200.

The Buckeyes were listed as 38-point favorites, even though Illinois shares third place with Michigan State in the Big Ten race on 2-1-1 conference records. Ohio State has a 7-0 mark, the same as Michigan, and they share the top spot in the conference with 4-0.

Griffin, averaging 150 yards per game rushing and playing only part time, and quarterback Cornelius Greene, the league leader in total offense with 219.5 yards per game, were rated the mainsprings of the Buckeye attack against the Illini, although fullback Pete Johnson and flanker Brian Baschnagel also are offensive threats.

Illinois' strength has been its defense, second best in the league, but Ohio State has a big edge as the leader in total offense.

Michigan, rated No. 2 nationally, also was a top heavy favorite, 30 points, for its trip to Indiana. The Hoosiers have a 1-3 Big Ten record and are 1-6 overall.

A third Midwest team, No. 5 rated Notre Dame, was an overwhelming pick, 32 points over Navy, for the contest at Philadelphia. The Irish have a 6-1 record and the Middies have won once.

The home teams were favored in the three remaining Big Ten games with Purdue a six point choice over Iowa, Wisconsin favored by the same margin over Michigan State, and Minnesota a nine-point pick over Northwestern, seeking its first Big Ten win in five games this year.

NBA roundup

Bullets finally misfire

By United Press International

What the rest of the NBA couldn't accomplish, the schedule maker did.

The Washington Bullets, playing their third game in three nights in three different cities, lost their first contest of the season after seven wins Thursday night when they bowed to the Houston Rockets 95-92.

Dave Wohl hit three free throws in the final 13 seconds to secure the Rocket victory. Houston led 92-90 with 19 seconds left and Wohl, who scored 29 points to lead the Rockers, was fouled by Wes Unseld. The 6-2 guard made the first of two attempts, but was fouled again and made both free throws seconds after Phil Chenier made a bucket for the Bullets.

Chenier tied Wohl for high point honors, and Bullets guard Kevin Porter added 18.

Houston forward Rudy Tomjanovich got 17 points, and the Rockers counted on Zaid Abdul Aziz for a game high 19 rebounds.

In the only other National Basketball Association games, New York edged Atlanta 93-90 and Cleveland smothered Detroit 118-101.

Knicks 93, Hawks 90

Earl Monroe's game-high 35 points paced New York over Atlanta. The Knicks' other starting guard, Walt Frazier, was injured in the first minute of play and will be out for five to seven days. Frazier's left eye was scratched and he was sent to the hospital for further examination. The Hawks were led by rookie John Drew's 27 points.

Cavs 118, Pistons 101

Austin Carr tallied 33 points and Bobby Smith had 18 for the Cavs in their triumph over Detroit. The Cavs, trailing by 10 points midway through the second period, shot a sizzling 85 per cent in the third quarter and went ahead to stay 61-60 on a pair of foul shots by Dick Snyder with 1:26 gone in the second half.

Detroit's Bob Lanier canned 13 of 12 from the field in the first half for a 31 point effort that gave the Pistons a 58-55 halftime lead. But the big center was held to only 10 points in the second half.

Pac-8 unbeatens should remain so

By United Press International

Southern California, UCLA and Stanford are the only unbeaten teams in the Pacific 8 Conference race, and if the oddsmakers prove right this weekend, the three schools will maintain their perfect records for another week.

Should USC beat California, UCLA down Washington and Stanford get by Oregon State, then the following Saturday's Trojan-Cardinals match at Palo Alto will all but eliminate one of the Big Three and leave UCLA in good position because the Bruins' Nov. 9 opponent is Oregon.

But that's getting a little ahead of things. First there are this Saturday's games to be concerned about and in these the 3-0 Trojans are 20-point favorites over California (2-1), the 2-0-1 Bruins are picked by eight over Washington (1-2) and the 2-0-1 Cardinals are favored by 13 over Oregon State (1-2).

USC coach John McKay, discarding the odds, is concerned about California, even though the Bears were soundly beaten by UCLA last Saturday, 28-3.

"They have a lot of offensive speed and their quarterback is as good as any we'll see this year," McKay said of California. "They can score quickly and often if things break their way. You never can be sure about a team like that. In my mind we'll have to win it on defense."

Coach Jack Christiansen is as deeply concerned about Oregon State, even though the Beavers have lost three starters to injuries — tailback Elvin Momon, fullback Charlie Smith and punter Bob McKenzie.

"After watching films of their games, for the life of me I can't see how the Beavers have lost six games this year," said the Stanford coach. "I've seen them in 22 different offensive formations, so it's going to be tough for our team to fully contain them. Look, I don't even want to think about the following week (vs. USC). Oregon State is going to be tough enough."

Dick Vermeil of UCLA also is worried about his team's opponent-Washington.

"Any team that can score 66 points with so many different people has to be respected," said Vermeil, referring to Washington's rout of Oregon last week. "Playing in Seattle at this time of the year can be difficult, too, with the vagaries of the weather. If we get out alive, anyway, I'll take it."

Washington State is at Oregon in the league's other game. The Cougars and Ducks have lot all three conference starts to date but WSU is the favorite Saturday by four points.

There is a break in league play this week in the PCAA with all six schools meeting outside opponents. Pace-setting San Diego State is at North Texas State, Pacific hosts Texas-Arlington, San Jose State plays at Utah, Fullerton State is at Cal Poly Pomona and Long Beach State is home to Southern Illinois.

Scibelli says Rams still 'up'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Offensive captain Joe Scibelli doesn't believe the Los Angeles Rams, who play the San Francisco 49ers Monday night, have lost their motivation.

"Teams are just getting up for us more this season," Scibelli said in explanation of the hard time the Rams are having with their opponents this season.

"Last year, no one knew much about us and we'd hit an opponent and be by them before they knew what happened. But after a 12-2 season and some predictions that we would go to the Super Bowl, everyone is better prepared.

"I'd be surprised to learn that anyone on our team is complacent. As for spirit or whatever you want to call it, we're as close as we were last year."

The game is being played at San Francisco. Los Angeles, leading the NFL's West Division by two games, beat the 49ers 37-14 two weeks ago.

Texans team-up for one-shot lead in Disney national golf

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Texan Rik Massengale thought his four-year career on the pro golf tour was going down hill in 1974, until he got to the last stop at fantasyland.

But the 27-year-old father of two got some help from his big brother Thursday to set the stage for a glorious finale on the immaculate greens at Walt Disney World.

The two Texans blazed a trail across Disney's 7,162-yard Magnolia course with two eagles and six birdies for a 10-under par 62 and a one stroke lead going into today's second round of the $250,000 National Team Championship.

"We basically know what each other is going and I think that helps in a situation like this," said Don Massengale, 10 years the elder, who quit the tour in 1970 and today works as the club pro at April Sound north of Houston.

Rik, who has won only $15,000 up to this final stop on this year, hit eagles on two par five holes—the 514-yard fourth and the 526-yard tenth—and dropped in four other birdie putts in the best ball competition.

"We didn't really have any holes where we were out of it," said Rik, the father of two small sons who calls Charlotte, Tex., home.

One stroke behind the leaders at the end of the first 18 holes were five teams—Dave Eichelberger and Steve Melnyk, Bud Allin and Al Geiberger, Bobby Mitchell and Gibby Gilbert, Lee Elder and Bob Murphy and Mike and Dave Hill, another team of brothers.

The Melnyk-Eichelberger team played the Magnolia course, while the others were on the tighter and tougher Palm layout.

In a group at 64, two strokes behind the leaders, were Joe Porter and Robert Zender, Ron Cerrudo and Harry Toscano, Bert Yancey and Ed Sneed, Charles Coody and Tommy Aaron, Gil Morgan and Spike Kelley, and Alabamians Hubert Green and B. R. McLendon, who calls themselves "the Birmingham Bombers."

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf, the pre-tournament favorites in the field of 111 teams, managed only a 67 in a round Nicklaus said was "not very exciting."

"We just didn't make the putts we should have made," added Weiskopf.

That was also the lament of Johnny Miller, the season's top money winner with more than $300,000, who pooled his skills with Grier Jones for a 68.

"It was ridiculously bad putting," Miller said. "We just didn't make any. We never did stick in there close."

Melnyk sank only two of his team's nine birdies and commented, "Dave did all the playing and I just tried to hold on." His teammate added, "You feel more pressure in team play because you don't want to let your partner down."

Nicklaus said that in this kind of competition, "the big thing is a guy has to do is play his own game and not worry about what his partner is doing."

Operations successful on Wynn and Russell

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Elbow operations on Los Angeles Dodger centerfielder Jimmy Wynn and shortstop Bill Russell Thursday were pronounced successful.

Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician, performed the surgery and said both operations "went well." He said Wynn and Russell would remain at Centinela Valley Hospital for three or four days.

Wynn, troubled season-long by a sore throwing arm, had bone chips removed from his right elbow. Some ligaments and muscles in the elbow were also reconstructed.

The ulna nerve in Russell's left elbow, his non-throwing arm, was repositioned because of Russell's complaint the elbow would "pop out" at times.

Russell's ailment was not related to a sore right shoulder he had during the last part of the season, Jobe said.

Dodger pitcher Tommy John, who missed the last half of the 1974 season with an elbow injury, will have the cast removed from his left arm Friday.

Former batting champ dies

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Charles S. "Buddy" Myer Jr., 70, American League batting champion in 1935, died Thursday.

Myer, second baseman for the Washington Senators, hit .349 for the title and finished fourth that year in balloting for the league's most valuable player award.

PAL forms booster club

The Pomona Athletic League, formerly the Sacred Heart Athletic League, has formed a booster club and has already made plans for fund raising projects in November and December.

The booster club, a non-profit organization for the youth of Pomona, elected Tony Mora, president. The first vice president is Tony Blazona and the second V.P. is Madeline Mora. The secretary is Sarah Partida, the Treasurer is Mary Lou Yamas and Betty Blazona was elected publicity officer.

Fund raising plans in the near future include a rummage and bake sale today and Saturday at 12985 9th and B St. in Chino, a boxing show to be held Nov. 19 at Cal Poly, and the annual banquet for executive board officers will be held Dec. 7 at Sacred Heart Hall, located on the corner of Hamilton and Grand Avenues in Pomona.

Beathard leads Storm, 14-0

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — A pair of Pete Beathard touchdown passes to Rufus Ferguson carried the Portland Storm to a 14-0 win over the Shreveport Steamer in a World Football League game Thursday night.

Beathard hit Ferguson with a six-yard strike to cap a 72-yard, 10-play drive on the Storm's first possession of the game.

He followed up with a 34-yarder to Ferguson with 1:07 remaining in the second period.

Portland's record rose to 7-10-1, while Shreveport slipped to 6-11-1.

PREP PREVIEW

Ontario vs. San Dimas at Bonita High

The Saints have an opportunity to really tune up their offense for the final two weeks in this one.

San Dimas, a contender with a 2-3-1 overall and 2-1-1 league record, is just beginning to get into top form. Quarterback Kevin Pokrajac is beginning to 'lead' the offense and running backs Richard Burke and Paul Wilman are starting to run with some authority.

Ontario (1-5 overall, 0-4 league) will once again suit up slightly more than 20 players, but as usual, will give it a tremendous effort.

This game will get underway at 8 p.m. at Bonita High.

Royal Oak vs. Alta Loma at Chaffey College

Entering the final three weeks of the season, every game is a 'must win' if you're a contender.

Lack of depth and injuries to Alta Loma (2-4 overall, 1-3 league) should make the Braves a definite underdog to the mighty Romans of Royal Oak (4-1-1 overall, 3-0-1). But a healthy Tom Bright could lead to an upset.

The AL quarterback played half the game last week after missing two weeks and Bright, with three touchdown runs of 70 yards or more, is a breakaway threat.

Len Mussack's Romans have one of the more potent offense in the Hacienda League with running backs Rick Hall (316 yards), Vince Nixon (188 yards), Chris Tribble (329 yards) and quarterback Jim Garcia (149).

And Royal Oak's defense, led by Frank Malicki, has to be rated among the HL's best. The Romans are allowing just 8.8 points per game against the third best in the valley.

Kickoff is slated for 8 p.m. at Chaffey College.

Azusa vs. Rowland at Nogales

Tonight the Raiders of Rowland High get their first big test of the Montview League season as they entertain Azusa at Nogales High. An 8 p.m. kickoff is scheduled.

Rowland is 4-0 in league while Azusa is 3-1, so an Aztec victory tonight could knot things up for the Montview top spot.

The Raiders' Bob Alkema will probably start in place of injured quarterback Flavio Garcia, which could make a difference as Azusa is reputedly stronger against the run than the pass and Alkema is not the thrower Garcia is.

The Aztecs will have the added—incentive of revenge on their minds as they lost to Rowland 14-3 last season.

San Gorgonio at Chaffey

Nothing has gone right for the Chaffey High Tigers in Citrus Belt League play at this point, but the Tigers could turn things around with a win over San Gorgonio tonight at Graber Field.

Going into the 8 p.m. kickoff, Chaffey is 0-2 in the CBL while San Gorgonio is 2-0. With only three games remaining in league action, Chaffey must win tonight to stand any chance at all of post-season playoff participation.

Webb at CSDR

Its been rough sledding of late for the Webb School Gauls, but they can turn things around today as they face CSDR in Riverside. Kickoff is slated for 3 p.m. in this Arrowhead League matchup.

Webb is 2-2 in league while CSDR is 1-3, but the Gauls will be out to break a two-game losing streak. Webb hopes to gets its offense in gear against the Riverside school, whose only win this year was against cellar-dweller Orange Lutheran.

L.V. Lutheran at Aquinas

Aquinas figures to have too much offense for Little La Verne Lutheran to handle in this Arrowhead League battle. Kickoff is at 8 p.m. at Aquinas in San Bernardino.

La Verne is coming off an easy win over Lutheran Orange, but Aquinas is fighting for the Arrowhead title and figures to be fired up for the Trojans.

Ontario Christian at Bell-Jeff

Ontario Christian, hoping to up their 1-3 Olympic League record, travel all the way to beautiful downtown Burbank to face Bell-Jefferson for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

OCHS has lost its last two league games and any hopes for a winning season must revolve around a win on the road tonight.

Western vs. American at Galvin Park

About the only thing at stake in this 8 p.m. game at Ontario's John Galvin Park would be the eight-man football "title" of the valley.

Neither Western Christian nor American Christian stand any chance of Academy League honors, but both schools would like to knock off the other local league entry.

The Lancers and Minutemen have shown the ability to score, but not much else, so this looks like a wild and wooly offensive show for followers of the two schools.

Saturday's games

Bonita vs. Walnut at MSAC

MSAC will host this Hacienda League crucial.

Not only is a shot at the league title at stake, in this 1 p.m. kickoff on Saturday but also a possible playoff berth.

Bonita will be putting everything on the line in this game. First place in the league standings. An unbeaten season (6-0 overall, 4-0 league), and its No. 1 defensive rating. The Bearcats are allowing just 6.2 points per game.

But Walnut has even more at stake.

No, the Mustangs aren't risking first place, or an unbeaten season (3-3 overall, 3-1 league), or any kind of a defensive rating.

A loss would probably not only eliminate them from the title picture, but would also place any post-season play in jeopardy.

Charter Oak at Nogales

Two valley Montview League entries go after one another Saturday at 8 p.m. at Nogales High.

Charter Oak and Nogales both need wins desperately to stay in the Montview title chase, and the two teams seem very evenly matched for tonight's showdown.

The Nogales Raiders have one of the more potent offenses in the Montview League, but the Charter Oak defense has been the key to the Chargers' success.

SCIAC roundup

Leos, Oxy clash in defensive battle

By DON BRADEY
P-B Staff Writer

La Verne College (3-3) will be out for its fourth win of the season and second conference victory Saturday (1:30 p.m.) when the Leopards travel to Occidental (0-4).

In night games, Pomona-Pitzer (0-5) hosts Redlands (3-2) while Claremont-Mudd (1-3) travels to Whittier (4-1). The game between La Verne and Occidental shapes up as a battle of defensive teams. The Leos have given up 96 points in six games. The Tigers have allowed 86 in four contests. La Verne is first, Oxy second in defense.

Offensively, Occidental has been practically helpless while the Leos have scored some points.

Oxy has just 21 points in four games. That figures out to 5.25 points per outing. La Verne has put 78 points on the board for an average of 13 points a game.

"They (the Tigers) looked real tough in their opening game against Azusa Pacific," said coach Roland Ortmayer. "Then they ran into trouble. Their big line is very young and inexperienced, but they may have matured now and they have us worried."

Oxy lost its opener, 3-0, to APC. Last week, the Tigers dropped a 16-7 game to powerful Whittier.

"I don't think Oxy has scored more than seven points in any game this season," Ortmayer said. "but I'm not sure we can score more than seven against them."

Ortmayer hasn't found anyone who has made a strong claim to the number one quarterback job. Randy Brown probably will get the call against Oxy.

One change has been made in the backfield which will probably remain in effect the rest of the season. Curtis Frick will be back in his familiar fullback spot. Frick has been running from a halfback position.

Roy VanderKallen, with a 176-yard performance against Pomona-Pitzer, will be the tailback.

On the Pomona field Saturday night, Walt Ambord's problem will be to stop a Redlands' offense that came to life last week against Claremont-Mudd.

The Bulldogs looked awesome in thrashing the Stags 41-13.

"They didn't bother to go outside," said C-M coach John Zinda. "They just ran over and through us.

The sagehens, although held to 181 yards by La Verne, still rank first among SCIAC teams in total offense. "We've always played well against Redlands," said P-P coach Walt Ambord. "I just hope we can do it again."

C-M dropped to last in defense among conference teams after the Redlands walloping. The Stags have given up an average of 448 yards a game.

The Poets have lost quarterback Jim MacDonald, but Zinda isn't sure that will hurt them. "They've had a problem of two good quarterbacks," he said, "and now they'll probably rally around the other guy and he's pretty good, too."

New NHL not so cozy for N.Y. Rangers

By United Press International

The New York Rangers aren't finding the new, watered-down National Hockey League set-up quite as cozy as in years past.

The Rangers, a sure-shot for a playoff berth in recent years in the NHL's old Eastern Division, found themselves locked in with the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the neighboring Islanders of Long Island and the young but improving Atlanta Flames.

"Okay," Ranger fans said, "we'll buy that. So we don't beat out Philadelphia. All we have to do is beat out one of the other two patsies to make the playoffs."

Wednesday night, one of those two patsies, the Islanders, tied the Rangers 1-1 to insure their lock on first place in Division I. Then Thursday night the Rangers ran into Philadelphia and the outcome was predictable. Flyers 5, Rangers 1.

Suddenly, the Rangers are tied with Atlanta for last place in the division.

In other NHL games, Montreal blanked Washington 3-0 and St. Louis tied Los Angeles 1-1. In the World Hockey Association, New England whipped Indianapolis 6-1, Cleveland downed Michigan 4-2 and San Diego edged Chicago 4-3.

Flyers 5, Rangers 1

Bill Clement and Ross Lonsberry each scored their second goals of the game during a four-goal uprising in the second period. Bernie Parent lost his bid for his first '74 shutout when Bobby Rousseau scored for the Rangers on a third period power play.

Canadiens 3, Capitals 0

Ken Dryden turned his his 15th career NHL shutout in dealing the expansion Caps their sixth straight loss and fourth whitewash of the young season. Murray Wilson, Serge Savard and Guy Lafleur scored the Montreal goals.

Kings 1, Blues 1

Garry Unger scored only his second goal of the year with 7:14 remaining to earn St. Louis and new coach Lynn Patrick its tie with Los Angeles. The goal ended a shutout string by King goalie Rogie Vachon of 133 minutes and 56 seconds. Juah Widing scored for Los Angeles.

Whalers 6, Racers 1

Tom Webster and Larry Pleau each scored a pair of goals to help the Whalers up their East Division-leading record to 5-1. Webster helped New England to a 3-0 first period lead with both of his goals while Pleau scored in the second and final periods. Whaler rookie Krister Abrahamson of Sweden turned back 29 shots.

Crusaders 4, Stags 2

Gerry Pinder and Skip Krake scored a pair of goals each as Cleveland kept pace with New England in the WHA East. Only 1,149 fans bothered to show up at Michigan's arena for the game.

Mariners 4, Cougars 3

Andre Lacroix scored two goals, including the gamewinner with 15 minutes left, to lead San Diego past Chicago. The victory was the Mariners' fourth in a row. Wayne Rivers, Lacroix and Gene Peacosh scored Mariner goals in the first 17 minutes.

Poly hungry for first win after three game drought

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

Neither Cal Poly nor Cal State Fullerton are going anyplace this football season but both teams are hungry for a win Saturday night in Poly's final home game of the season at Kellogg Field.

"We have to win our last three games," comments Poly coach Andy Vinci. "The community was promised a winner and we're going to fulfill that pledge."

"The Pomona game is a big one for us — we must have a win," is the word from Pete Yoder, the Fullerton mentor.

Both teams have had frustrating experiences recently.

Poly hasn't enjoyed a victory since September. The October schedule ended up with a bye, two ties and last week's 17-15 loss to UC Riverside which knocked the Broncos out of the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) title picture.

Fullerton, which left the CCAA to move up to major college ranks in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, has lost four of its last five games.

The Broncos enter Saturday's 7:30 p.m. kickoff with a 3-2-2 record while Fullerton is 4-4. However, Fullerton is 3-0 against former CCAA foes with victories over Riverside, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and Cal State Northridge which indicates the Titans left the league a year too soon.

Vinci is planning to start some newcomers on offense Saturday with freshmen Mike Harris and Ted Myles getting the opening assignments at tailback and wide receiver respectively.

Quarterback Jim Zorn, the school's career record holder for total offense, will start his final game at Kellogg Field Saturday. He tops the CCAA in scoring (54 points on nine touchdowns), passing (95 of 191 for 1,407 yards) and total offense (1,838 yards on 329 plays).

Two other Poly seniors are also leading the CCAA. Tailback Rich Paulson tops the rushing stats with 563 yards while flanker Andy Sanchez paces the receivers with 44 catches for 745 yards.

Fullerton, coming off a 48-21 loss to improving Fresno State, has had problems finding a quarterback. Steve Martindale, a freshman from Mater Dei High, will direct the Titan offense Saturday.

"Martindale has made a few rookie errors but he is the type of player that learns by his mistakes," Yoder says. "He gets better each week."

Sophomore tailback Roe McClendon is Fullerton's top rusher with 508 yards. Charles Kyles, the team's second leading runner, is doubtful after being arrested earlier this week on a robbery charge.

The Titans have several players from the Pomona area. Freshman Bruce Abraham of Claremont is the second string tight end. Greg Steele of Upland will be seeing some action at offensive split guard. Mike O'Hara, a transfer from Mt. San Antonio College, is a reserve tackle and freshman Jim Price of Pomona High is now a linebacker after switching from fullback.

Three JC backs zero in on 1,000

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

Valley junior college football in 1974 may well be remembered as the year of the 1,000-yard runner.

No less than three JC players have a shot at gaining a 1,000 yards or more this season. Two of them, Roy Prather and Ed White are starters in Citrus College's backfield. And the third, Binky Benton, runs for Mt. San Antonio College.

All three have more than 500 yards in six games so far this season and will be out to maintain the 1,000 yard pace when their teams take the field this weekend for key conference games.

Prather, who leads the trio and the Mission Conference with 629 yards and a 5.9 average, may be hard pressed to keep up the pace when Citrus hosts a strong defensive team in San Diego Saturday at 7:30.

Prather's running mate, White, may ease the pressure. The sophomore fullback has 542 yards with a 5.7 average.

MSAC's Benton, a freshman as is Prather, leads the South Coast Conference with 548 yards on a team that is still looking for its first win when it visits Cerritos College in Norwalk Saturday at 7:30.

Benton's average slipped from 4.2 per carry to 3.9 last week as Orange Coast bottled him up for only 50 yards net in a 19-11 loss.

Although the Mounties haven't won a game in six (0-4-2) they could conceivable win the South Coast title by winning their last four games beginning with Cerritos (1-0, 3-2 overall).

Citrus (4-0, 5-0-1) leads the Mission Conference but may be hard pressed against explosive San Diego which has a deceptive 2-3 conference records, 2-5 overall.

No. 2 Ram QB feels no pressure

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If anything happens to James Harris, the Los Angeles Rams' new first-string quarterback, at San Francisco Monday night, Ron Jaworski will trot out on the field and try not to act like he's never appeared in an NFL game before.

John Hadl, the veteran, is gone now and Jaworski, the 23-year-old rookie from Youngstown State, is the No. 2 quarterback for the defending NFC West champions.

"I honestly don't feel any more pressure on myself," said the affable Hamburg, N.Y., resident. "I haven't played in a league game but I know what I'm capable of doing because I played quite a bit during the pre-season.

"When the Rams traded John last week, it showed me the coaches and the front office had a lot of confidence in me. If James gets hurt now, I know there's nobody there but myself and I kind of like the idea."

Jaworski was a second round draft choice of the Rams last season and spent 1973 on the taxi squad. Against Cleveland in Los Angeles exhibition opener in August, Jaworski was in camp.

Hadl, who was shipped to Green Bay for five draft choices last week, and Harris weren't because of the NFL Players Association strike. Jaworski started and hit 14 of 26 passes for 172 yards in a 24-20 victory over the Browns. For the preseason, he was 20 for 38 for 246 yards—a 52.6 completion percentage—and one touchdown.

"I didn't want to blow that chance," Jaworski said. "I had to show what I could do and, fortunately, I put together a good game."

The kid from Youngstown State viewed the Hadl trade with mixed emotions. On one hand, he knew the deal helped his own career. On the other, he had to say goodbye to a man he respected and considered a good friend.

"The trade really surprised me," he said. "I don't think anyone expected it. It was a break for me but I hated to see John go.

"But Green Bay made the Rams an offer they couldn't refuse. The Rams could get five outstanding players out of it. And when you're a professional athlete, getting traded is the name of the game.

"Who knows? Maybe next year James Harris or I could be gone. That's just the way it is. You can never tell in this game where you'll be tomorrow."

Jaworski, nicknamed "The Polish Rifle" by a Los Angeles sportswriter after he was drafted by the Rams, is, by his own admission, an impatient person. Except when it comes to his profession.

"Look, I don't like to stand in lines at the supermarket or the bank or sit down and paint something," he remarked. "I don't like to do things that take a long time. I like to do something and get it done.

"But football is different. There are so many things to learn. Especially for a quarterback. The year's experience working with a man like John was fantastic. He taught me the little things of the game. He helped me in so many ways.

"I realize this is one thing that I can't be impatient about."

Jaworski said he doesn't "stand around chewing grass" in the Rams' practice sessions now.

"I find practice a lot more enjoyable," he stressed. "I get to work with the No. 1 team and I prepare myself for the game as if I'm going to start. I get a chance to get a lot more throwing in."

Jaworski does have a big league arm. His four-year totals at Youngstown State were 325 completions in 658 attempts for 4,612 yards and 32 touchdowns.

In his senior year in college, he completed 139 of 259 for 2,129 yards and 18 TDs.

"All that's left now is getting in a game and getting some experience," he said. "The coaches haven't said anything to me but I'm sure they'll get me in there as soon as they can if we get a big enough lead in a game."

Cards re-acquire defensive back

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — First-year defensive back Rufus Scales was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday after being released by the Chicago Bears.

Scales has been with the Cardinals earlier in 1974 but was injured and placed on injured waivers before the start of the regular season.

'Bama, Auburn try to avoid disaster before Big Game

By United Press International

The prelude to the expected showdown between Alabama and Auburn for the Southeastern Conference championship at the end of the month begins Saturday and neither of these unbeaten powers, ranked third and fourth respectively in the country, had better take this weekend's opponents lightly.

Alabama is host to an upset-minded Mississippi State team with designs on the SEC title. Mississippi State boasts a 6-1 record, the best it's had in years, and despite Alabama's home field advantage and 21-point favorite status the Tide will have to be in good form to avoid being bitten by these 15th-ranked Bulldogs.

Auburn takes its 7-0 record down to Gainesville to play the University of Florida, 19th-ranked nationally and victor in six of its seven games this year.

If the Gators can knock off Auburn and Mississippi State can topple the Crimson Tide, five teams will have only one loss in the SEC.

In other top ten action, Ohio State is a 38-point favorite over Illinois; second-ranked Michigan is 30-points over Indiana; fifth-ranked Notre Dame is 32 over Navy; No. 6 Southern Cal is 20 over California; No. 7 Texas A&M is 11 over Arkansas; 8th-ranked Penn State is a slim one-point choice over Maryland and No. 9 Nebraska is 15 over Colorado.

Zoned heat

Fuel economy and comfort promoted

One of the most attractive features of hydronic (hot water) heat is the ease with which the house can be "zoned," says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. This means that the home is divided into zones or logical heating areas, and each is supplied with as much heat and only as much heat as is needed.

In the zoned home, the heat is provided by a central boiler, with hot water piped to radiation in each room in the conventional way. The difference is that each area has its own thermostat, connected to a zone valve that controls the heat sent to that zone. When the zone thermostat calls for heat, it activates the zone valve. When the thermostat is satisfied, the zone valve cuts off the heat.

Without zoning, the heating system is expected to send the same amount of warmth everywhere throughout the house. However, some parts often are overheated, and there are cold spots in others. Even if completely uniform warmth were achieved, the temperature would be unsatisfactory because the activities of a household are too varied. It's the living habits of a family rather than an arbitrary setting on a thermostat that should determine the temperature in various rooms.

Here are some specific examples:

A living room occupied by older folks or toddlers playing on the floor requires more heat than does a family room occupied by active growing youngsters. A kitchen usually needs little extra heat because so much is already generated by cooking. Most people like to keep bathrooms warm at all times and the bedrooms cool while sleeping.

Window boxes

A small garden for every room

Window boxes, classics from days long ago, are back and brighter than ever. Whether you live in a house, apartment or trailer, window boxes are the ideal way to provide a mini-garden for every room. They are easily accessible gardens with bouquets of flowers ready to be picked, vegetables to harvest and herbs ready to add to winter soups and salads -- all waiting just outside your window.

One of the beauties of window box gardening is the ease of it. Once boxes have been fitted to your windows, you can have detachable liners ready with colors to set out anytime of the year. Spring bulbs may be planted now to set out in a few months . . . they will surprise the whole neighborhood with color on an early spring day.

Children will enjoy having their own private garden outside of their room. They can grow what ever they want and check how their garden is doing by just glancing out the window.

With a little imagination, you can mix and match your window boxes all you want. For sunny spots, Pelargoniums can spill out over window sills while Fuchsias and lush Tuberous Begonias bloom in the shade. Fairy Primroses are a cheerful choice for window boxes for the cool weather ahead. Or try a handful of Cyclamen plants. You can buy them in bloom now and keep your boxes in bloom for months on end.

Window box gardening can be a fun family project. Not only will your home be more colorful but, your neighbors will enjoy your efforts too. They will enjoy your bloom-filled window boxes just as much as you do.

Gardener's checklist

You may get a head start on the seasonal rush and have a top selection by shopping for living Christmas trees this month.

Remove fallen leaves and other debris from the garden. They serve as breeding places for garden pests and diseases.

Plant Daphne odora for fragrant bloom during the winter months. Give it good drainage in a partially shaded area.

For a portable display, try planting Daffodils in pots.

Looking for a hanging basket plant to adorn the porch or patio during the winter months? Shopping at your local nursery will reveal several types of handsome Ivy plants in ready-to-hang containers. The foliage texture and color will provide continual enjoyment.

Sprouts & Cuttings

LOS ROBLES HORTICULTURE CLUB of Cal Poly University, Pomona, is sponsoring a parking lot plant sale Saturday and Sunday at Stater Brothers Market, 1845 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Purpose of the sale is to raise funds for the club's scholarship fund by offering low cost plants to the homeowner. One-gallon size shrubs and trees are priced at 95 cents while all 5-gallon sizes are tagged at $3.50. Included in the sale are flowering shrubs, evergreens and hardwood trees. Hours of the sale are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

POMONA VALLEY ORGANIC GARDEN CLUB will have its monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of Palomar Junior High School in Pomona, according to club chairman Howard Benson.

Underway is a membership drive to attract those interested in pure organic gardening. The club operates a 3-acre plot in Pomona where winter and summer vegetables may be grown on individual plots by members.

Prof. D. R. Webster, of Mt. San Antonio College, will give a demonstration on soil analysis at Tuesday's meeting.

Keep vents open

When the ceiling of a home is well insulated, attic vents should be left open winter and summer. Winter ventilation lessens the possibility of moisture condensation on the underside of the roof. Summer ventilation keeps the attic cooler.

'Instant on'

An "instant on" television set consumes electricity even when it's turned off, according to the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality. Unplug the TV when you're not using it, the committee advises.

Check chimney

Now is the time to have the fireplace chimney checked -- cleaning and necessary repairs. For safety's sake, it's a good bet to have this done before starting it up in the cool weather season ahead.

At a time of great concern in California Assemblyman Bill Lancaster responds . . .

Yes, Assemblyman Bill Lancaster responds with thoughtful action during a time of economic uncertainty, because when Government thinks in terms of millions, Bill Lancaster thinks in terms of families, people on a fixed income . . . he thinks about dwindling savings . . . the cost of living . . . those serious issues that face people today. And, he thinks about the way Government spends money, the climate in which inflation flourishes. He carefully considers the priorities of state government, always certain that Government can respond, but government cannot do everything all at once. The thing that Bill Lancaster works hardest for is the elimination of excesses and wasteful spending. If it were up to Bill Lancaster, Government would spend its money as cautiously as citizens spend their paychecks.

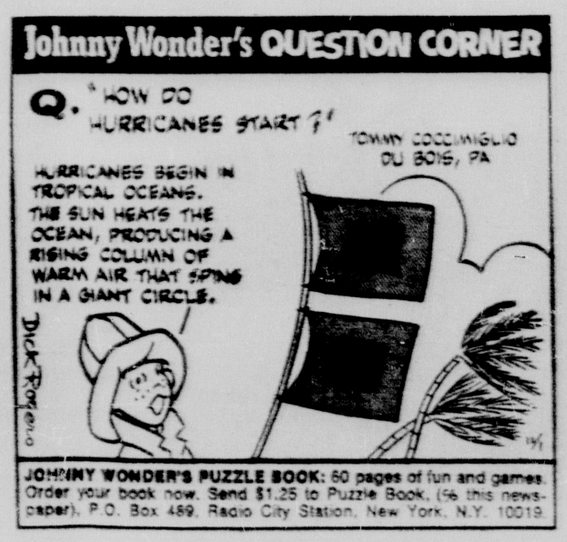
JOHNNY WONDER



A hurricane is a giant windstorm. It is hundreds of miles across, with winds that whirl around in a great circle at speeds that reach 75 miles an hour and more.

Hurricanes form over tropical oceans not far from the equator. A hurricane begins when the sun heats the ocean, causing a rising cloud of warm air.

Cooler air rushes in from all sides to replace the rising air.

Because of the earth's rotation, the winds begin to blow around and around in a giant circle and a hurricane is born.

Moisture in the storm condenses to rain and gives up heat, thus adding to the updraft that helps keep the hurricane going once it has started.

The hurricane's center is a calm area, called the "eye." When a hurricane strikes land it may cause a great deal of damage.

In the Pacific Ocean these tropical storms are called typhoons. People who live on the Indian Ocean call them cyclones.

A radio, camera, globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DAL Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

JOB FINDERS!

they found it in the Want Ads

The worst thing about being out of a job, aside from the obvious economic setbacks, is not knowing where to look.

Equally frustrating is the problem of where to look for prospective employees.

Both of these dilemmas are resolved completely in one place – the Classified Section of your newspaper. Job hunters have stopped wearing out their shoes long ago and turned to the Help Wanted Ads in the Classified pages. Here they can find a variety of job opportunities in a market that can change from day to day. Sooner or later they are likely to find the position for which they are qualified. Or they can list their qualifications, experience and salary needs in the Jobs Wanted classification.

Employers have come to depend heavily on the wide readership of Help Wanted ads. They find it an inexpensive method of describing exactly the type of worker needed. They are also able to give pertinent details about salary, pensions and other benefits.

Nothing brings employer and employee together more quickly and more effortlessly than the Help Wanted Ads. It's the best friend a job hunter ever had.

To find or fill a job it's the WANT ADS.... Look into it... dial 622-1201
